

Dear <Faculty Member>,

I am sending you this email to request a live streaming option, in addition to in-person learning, for our class this Spring 2022 semester. I am concerned that the accommodations in <Class Number/Name> will not be enough to protect myself and my peers from getting sick.

Without an online streaming option, students will be discouraged from staying home if they are not feeling well. I worry that students are in danger of losing their opportunity to attend school this semester due to exposure to the virus. I want to be able to attend in-person lectures without being afraid of getting sick.

Thank you for reading my email. I understand that it is not easy to make adjustments to your course arrangements when the semester is already starting. Your leadership and efforts to keep students safe is important and will not go unnoticed.

Thank you for your time,

<Your Name>
