

Your Name: My given name is Marie. You all, however, may call me Professor!

Your Species: Cappari! Completely usual and run of the mill variant.

1. Why you want to intern for the R.R.A:

I personally am offended that you all have not messaged me sooner asking for my assistance. I'm a prodigy in my field, you should all understand. I would be a great asset to your work. Really, you all should be the ones telling me why I should want to intern for you.

2. What you hope to achieve in this position:

I believe that we can reach great heights working together, metaphorically speaking. Symbiosis. I scratch your back, you scratch mine. You need research, my research needs funding. It's simple, really.

3. Confirm your understanding of the clearly communicated risks associated with the position:

As I would with any other undertaking, I completely understand the risks associated with this position. I am in no danger, though, I assure you. Nothing could even touch me.

4. Any recent unusual sightings you would like to report to the R.R.A:

Nothing other than the slight issue with my halo. I'm sure that it will return to normal in due time, though. Just needs some more progress.
