- I thought your listeners might like to learn about GeoAdvent.
- It's an online 25 day Geocache Advent calendar. Each door of the calendar holds a geocache finding exercise that must be completed to have that day's door change from black and white to color. You don't have to find the specified geocache on that day, and have until 31 December to log your caches. If you finish all 25 challenges you will receive a banner you can include on your profile.
- -----
- Spatula6 (via xmas day show)
- I wanted to let you know I received a ready made cache from a friend, which was a fake book, filled with 100 centrifuge tubes, and you guessed it, only one has the log. She already has a spot picked out for me to hide it.

- One of my sons bought me a 7 in one pen, which includes a light and different screwdriver heads. Super thoughtful.
- As for Jewocaching day, it is always tough, as my other half is not a tribe member, but he is Jew-"ish". I did start another trend a few years ago with a friend for Hannukah. We do the 12 days of Hannukah. We call it the 8 days of Hannucaching. 1st night, 1 cache, 2nd day, 2 caches ect.
- Thanks for everything you guys do, and I too am ridiculously excited for the ET highway in November. I already have the time booked off work.

Geo-Pole Dancing

Found It - Dec 31, 2024 at 12:01 PM

I have reached the age where I get asked about my bucket list. I have led an average life with a few adventures here & there. I developed interests, seen them through and moved on to other things. I have circled the lower 48 on a motorcycle (mostly solo riding). I followed a career path I enjoyed that allowed me to still make a difference. I reared a son that I am proud of. I have grandsons that I can only imagine will do great things.

Today, at 67 years old, I got to try my hand at pole dancing.

Blame my mentor. He suggests the caches we might try for & I mostly agree. This is the first time I ask him what I should wear. Or not wear. The temp is not expected to get above 31°F.

Words were exchanged. The things that needed to be done were done. I did nothing that I am ashamed of. (Except for the language I might have used when things didn't go exactly right). I had a glow to my skin that might not be weather related.

This is my story & I am sticking to it. No poles were harmed in the collecting of this container.
