

1. Justin Bieber

I believe that human beings are inherently evil--how else could I exist? Why else would people buy my albums? I think the fact that people are evil effects every aspect of our lives: the music we buy, what our songs are about, and how we spend our money. I mean, look at me: I spend my money all on my self. I'm conceited and completely selfish. If I was smart enough to know this word, I would even say I'm narcissistic. Clearly, I'm evil and so is everyone else.

2. Justin Bieber

I believe that human beings are inherently evil--how else could I exist? Why else would people buy my albums? I think the fact that people are evil effects every aspect of our lives: the music we buy, what our songs are about, and how we spend our money. I mean, look at me: I spend my money all on my self. I'm conceited and completely selfish. If I was smart enough to know this word, I would even say I'm narcissistic. Clearly, I'm evil and so is everyone else.

3. Justin Bieber

I believe that human beings are inherently evil--how else could I exist? Why else would people buy my albums? I think the fact that people are evil effects every aspect of our lives: the music we buy, what our songs are about, and how we spend our money. I mean, look at me: I spend my money all on my self. I'm conceited and completely selfish. If I was smart enough to know this word, I would even say I'm narcissistic. Clearly, I'm evil and so is everyone else.