I actually saw this house in West Virginia and then a similar design in Colorado. Both were somewhat dilapidated. I changed the roof to a mansard from double gable which I thought looked better. This design now incorporates a large roof top deck and widow's walk on tower roof. All was built from memory as I did not have a camera during this trip. It is of basswood construction and has lights both inside and outside. Design is timeless and would fit well on a period or modern pike.
