Personality

Ever since she was little, Rooibos loved to cause trouble and be a pawful. She found joy in messing around with her family, and starting mock arguments and debates with anyone who was willing to return the fire. She has a hardcore personality, everything she does is with pride and confidence, and she's always ready to listen to someone else's pride and joy. She is hard to bring down and is always ready to defend when someone can't. Though she tends to hold her defensive even if she's told the 'victim' can handle it.

Though Rooibos doesn't know the limits of others or herself, and on many occasion has gone overboard. She has low awareness of feelings and takes things at face value and very literally. She knows she has this flaw, and is trying to fix it and be more socially aware. She has been known to play rough in any situation, which has led to her accidentally hurting feelings. Nonetheless, she's still young and has much to learn about herself and others.

History

Early life

Rooibos was born to Mandrill and Primrose with her siblings Chai, Matcha, and Oolong. She didn't know her father, and would sometimes ask her mother about him, but she could never get an answer. A friend of Primrose's, Moishe, became like a second father to Roo, and she always ran to greet him when he visited. She liked having him around, since her mother was hard to get to play.

She didn't understand one day when Primrose just.. stopped moving, and ran with her siblings to ask Moishe what the matter was. She zoned out what Moishe said, only really retaining that their mother was gone, and she was never going to see her again. She was sad, but she tried to comfort her siblings, despite her own tears brimming.

Moishe brought them to the Pyre Colony, and Rooibos knew she was going to have a blast. She took a liking to the cats and grew comfortable to run around and mess with them. Edna was a little strange though, the large molly speaking of invisible cats that only she could speak to. Roo didn't mind, she thought it was neat, but the concept was strange to her.

She didn't understand at all what was happening when the battle for Pyre began. She tried to ask Moishe if he knew, experiencing some of her first emotions of fear. She was anxious, and she didn't like how D'Arcy treated her or her family. Why did Aunt D'Arcy hiss at Oolong? Why is everyone so angry...? She could never figure it out.

Trying Again

After the fall of Pyre, Roo thought they had nowhere to go until they were taken to the Cavern Colony. She didn't know how to feel about all these changes... with Edna and the Pyre Colony gone, D'Arcy.. somewhere she didn't know. Chai was.. very upset.. Why was she so upset? Roo didn't understand that either.

She tried to tag along on Chai's adventures and journey of discovery, learning about Rune's Group after they joined. She saw Chai's attachment to Valenism and made quick work of learning about it just so she could have something to talk about and comfort her sister.

When she was told the superstition of how kittens should act in relation to their birth, Roo was a little confused. She was second born, thus having to be more mature and thoughtful. That wasn't her style. She didn't want to live up to the norm of superstition, and it started to make her feel pressured to be someone she wasn't.

She was grateful for the bow Oolong made for her, and it gave her a new determination to live up to expectations. She knew it was going to be difficult, but she had her siblings, and she was going to try her best. The beliefs of Valenism weren't fully her own, but she threw herself into it, unaware of the impact of forcing herself to meet expectations.
