

Swords - The Full Story

A unedited, compiled, and organized transcript by SCP-173irl and anyone who helps

Swords is created by Matthew J. Wills, aka MurkyWay

Origin of Kings

The Burnt Forest

1. The Sworcerer: "To become my apprentice, first go to the Enchanted Forest and find a wand!"
2. The young boy comes across a magical sword in the woods.
3. Young Hilton: "Oh!"
4. The young boy breaks off the handle with a "Snap!" sound.
5. Young Hilton: "Ahh ha ha!"
6. The young boy burns down the forest as magic erupts from the handle with a "Pew! Pew!" sound.

Monster Magician

1. Monster Magician: "I am the Monster Magician! Practiced in the techniques of sword-monsters from all over the world!"
2. Young Hilton: "Wow, mister! What sort of techniques?"
3. Monster Magician: (inhale) "Blergh!"
4. The Monster Magician breathes an attack consisting of dozens of swords.

Dreamers Blade

1. Merchant: "Dreamers Blade! Lets you kill your enemies in your dreams!"
2. Customer: "I'll take it!"
3. Customer's dream self encounters his enemy, a Dark Knight.
4. As the Dark Knight approaches, the Customer realizes his dream self is unarmed.
5. Customer is trying to grab the Dreamers Blade from his sleeping self in the real world, as the Dark Knight swings at him.

Broadsquito

1. Monster Magician: "The Broadsquito!"
2. It resembles a mosquito with a sword proboscis, blade wings, and a scabbard abdomen.
3. Monster Magician: "If I can harness its ability to siphon life from its target, I'll have a powerful new technique for combat! I'll be unstoppable!"
4. Monster Magician approaches a sleeping man with a broadsword.
5. Sleeper: "Hmmm? What? Damn broadsquitoes..."
6. "Slurp! Slurp!"
7. Monster Magician has stabbed the sword into the sleeper's chest and is sucking on the hilt.

I Left My Blade ...

1. The gods are conversing in their realm.
2. Baltad: "I left my blade in a stone in the forest—only a kind man will be able to pull it out and become king."