

My name is Anna Markrova, and seven years ago, I took a leap of faith that I'm sure you can relate to.

I gathered the courage to give the finger to the traditional 9-5 routine and went after my dreams...

I took the plunge and launched my very first online gaming university.

Designed to help gamers become professional esports players.

Like a space rocket, my new venture was headed to the moon, and for a brief moment I thought I'd made it...

Unfortunately, in just a matter of months, I had to shut it down because one of my investors ended up stealing my start-up and shamelessly using my hard work and research to launch it as his own innovative idea.

And since he was a high-profile individual in Russia, he had far greater financial resources than I did to fund massive marketing campaigns across television and other marketing channels.

With such an unfair advantage, I didn't stand a chance, and his business took off, while my revenue began to fade away until there wasn't a single extra dime coming in.

The weight of disappointment crushed me like a ton of bricks, leaving me utterly devastated and heartbroken.

My dream had slipped right through my fingers, and everything I had worked tirelessly on for over a year was fading right before my eyes.

But I didn't let that break me. Instead, I pulled myself together, and I decided to go in a new direction.

I started a business in the e-learning industry, Real Estate management program.

At the time, my entrepreneurship journey was being supported by the steady stream of revenue I was making from Real estate.

So, I decided to leverage my expertise in that area and offer guidance to those in need.

I started off decently, generating a few thousand a month from my new online business, but then I hit a wall and remained stuck at the same level for nearly two years.

I devoted countless hours and over $25,000 attending seminars and learning from successful individuals, as well as investing in coaching and courses from "experts" who were great at selling the shiny thing that would result in money pouring in.

Throughout this journey, I picked up a wealth of knowledge about the mechanics and systems of marketing.

However, no coach or combination of coaches could help me develop a reliable marketing plan that would consistently lead me to achieve my six-digit target (since they didn't have a sustainable plan themselves)

I left no stone unturned when it came to traffic generation -social media marketing, pay-per-click advertising, or even influencer collaborations. You name it, I did it.

But I just couldn't seem to break through the damn glass ceiling of stagnant revenue.

There was this frustrating gap that I couldn't wrap my head around no matter how hard I tried.

What was even more disheartening was the fact that I had absolutely no clue what I was doing.

I was in a constant phase of "figuring things out" going from one thing to another hoping that this new tactic or trick was going to be it.

With each underwhelming outcome, my disappointment only grew stronger.

I was completely lost. Marketing felt like a complex puzzle, and I couldn't find the missing piece.

Questions and doubts kept crashing into my mind nonstop...

It felt like hitting rock bottom, with no way to achieve the six-figure business I've always dreamt of.

I remember the day I woke up feeling like I slept under a pile of rocks, weighing down my energy.

While reviewing my morning metrics, a wave of dread washed over me.

Negative thoughts echoed relentlessly in my head:

"Is this even worth it?"

"Will this ever work for me?"

"How do people attain such high levels of success?"

"I just don't get it..."

But it was the 27th of September, and I was attending a seminar that I had been eagerly anticipating.

So I swallowed the lump in my throat, packed my bag, and hit the road to Moscow.

During the seminar, the speech was incredibly insightful.

On the second day, while I was sitting in the third row, listening intently and scribbling notes like my life depended on it, little did I know that the next words would entirely flip my business.

It's surprising how the answer was right in front of me all along.

But I was searching for something more complicated, not realizing that the key to turning my business around could be as simple as that...

The speaker excitedly shared a story about his friend, who owned a restaurant that was consistently packed, despite limited advertising efforts.

Curiosity piqued, so he approached his friend to uncover the secret behind the restaurant's success and he revealed his three-step simple strategy.

He said: "First of all, right from the moment customers step into our place, we ensure a rewarding customer journey that would result in the biggest profit for us.

Then we give a menu that we crafted to showcase our dishes in a unique and enticing manner, setting ourselves apart from our competitors.

Lastly, our marketing messaging was carefully crafted with targeted writing, compelling our customers by speaking directly to their unique desires and preferences.

After setting everything up, we simply stepped back and enjoyed a full house 7 days a week."

And that's when it hit me...

Over the past couple of years, I've been chasing after every traffic hack and strategy that came my way. I've been following the crowd, trying to keep up with the latest trends and tricks.

But amidst the exhaustion, I never paused to reflect on the destination of all this traffic.

That's when I realized the need to steer clear of short-lived tactics and shift my focus toward building a solid foundation.

When you adapt the restaurant strategy to your online business, the first step is to set up a well-designed funnel that keeps customers coming back for more and maximizes profitability from each one.

The second step is crafting an offer that's so darn tempting, it's impossible for customers to resist. By doing this, you'll leave your competitors in the dust and avoid getting caught up in price-based battles.

Now, onto step three: it's all about putting together a killer marketing message that really hits home with your audience and gets them fired up to take action.

It's incredible how every business owner out there (including me at the time) is caught up in doing the same thing.

They're all fixated on driving traffic and increasing sales, but that's merely 10% of the equation.

What they're missing is perfecting the essence.

Additionally, even with the implementation of a basic traffic strategy that only generates minimal results, you can still surpass the financial achievements of most business owners over their entire lifetime.

It's like effortlessly scaling the highest peak of a mountain while others struggle to even reach the base.

I doubled down on this approach and dedicated a significant amount of time to experimenting with countless funnels

Discovering innovative ways to present a widely available product in a fresh perspective to transform it into a unique and unparalleled offering in the market

And learning the art of writing persuasive marketing messages that effortlessly engages my audience and resonates with their desires.

After years of trial and error, I finally honed my skills and gradually became an expert in these phases.

As I persisted, I started noticing significant progress, and I went from a couple thousand a month to successfully running a six-figure business.

The sense of achievement was a profound relief, like a prisoner stepping out into the warm embrace of sunlight after years of confinement.

The weight that had been pressing down on me for so long vanished, replaced by a sense of liberation and joy.

With this accomplishment, I was finally able to spread my wings and live life on my own terms, unrestricted and full of possibilities..

As business owners, we all embarked on this journey with one common goal in mind: to achieve true freedom, but freedom is a concept that holds a unique meaning for each person.

For you, it could mean never experiencing that overwhelming tightness in your chest when faced with bills or the weight of financial commitments.

For some, it's the sheer joy of owning their dream house, without being enslaved to a never-ending mortgage.

Or probably the adrenaline rush of driving a fiery red supercar, with a roaring engine.

For others, it's about creating a lasting legacy for their children and grandchildren to ensure a future where their loved ones don't have to endure financial struggles in any shape or form

For me, it's boundless travel, exciting adventure, and the discovery of awe-inspiring destinations and vibrant cultures.

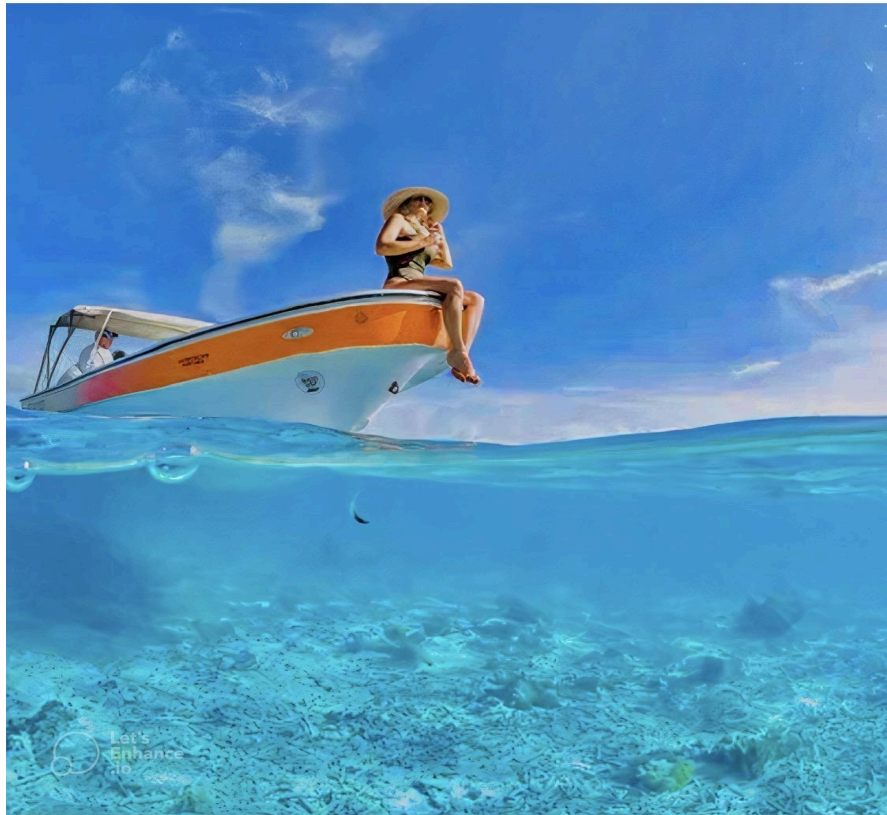

As I write this, I have location freedom, experiencing the joys of winter or the warmth of summer whenever my heart desires, while my network flourishes, including friends from all corners of the world.

Here's a glimpse of the incredible journey my life has been in the past year:

Lost in the dazzling lights of Dubai

Escaping the Monday monotony at sea

Soaring in the air with joy in the UAE desert

Immersed in Zanzibar's magical sunrise

Enjoying my morning view from 2320 meters above the clouds in Sochi

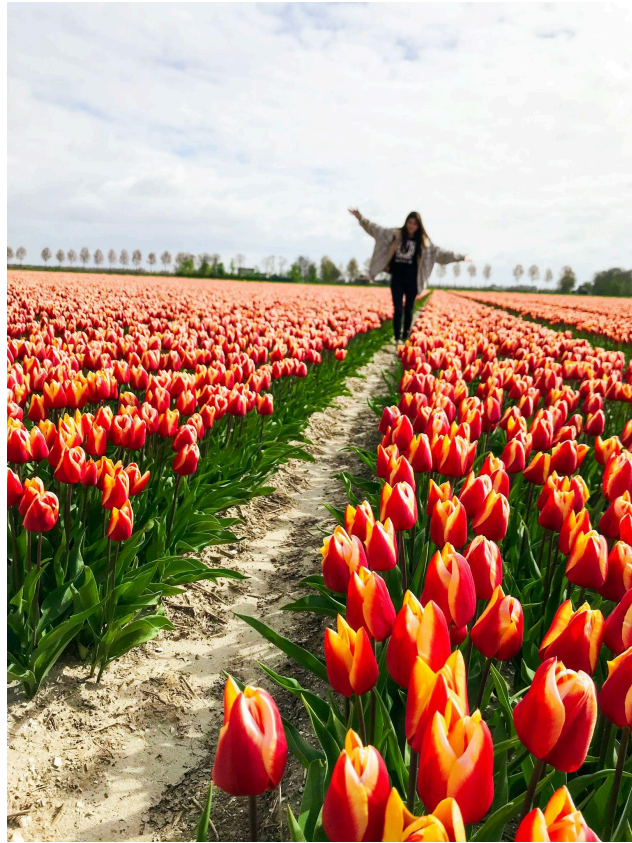

Why stress when you can go wild in Romania's music festival?

A journey in Uganda, tracing the mighty Nile - the longest river in the world

In the heart of the Netherlands, can you resist the spell of this tulip field?

One life. One spirit. One chance to fly with wings wide open!

I'm not showing you these pictures to show off.

My intention is to emphasize that no matter what freedom means to you, my mission is to help you truly experience it in its purest form.

Because, let's be real, being an entrepreneur today is pretty damn extraordinary.

Changing lives through your products and making a real impact, unlike most people out there.

You've broken free from the chains of mediocrity and are chasing your own dreams.

It took strength, sacrifice, and serious commitment to get where you are today.

Remember this: "You are the creator of your own reality"

In my darkest moments, I pulled myself out of bed when I felt like crap, with that sentence on repeat in my head.

Sure, sometimes it gets tough...

So tough that you can't even see a glimmer of light at the end of the tunnel.

But that doesn't mean it's not there patiently waiting for you to reach it.

Whatever your business goal is right now, know that someone out there is already living it.

And you know what? There's always a way to get there. All it takes is the guts to step through the door once you've found the key.

So cheers to the day when you'll stand tall, and look yourself in the mirror, igniting with pride and feeling a sense of achievement shining through your eyes.
