? Questions & Answers 🤔

? @Grunderson asked, in a Comment on our “Is OPP a Good Dividend Paying Stock to Buy Now?” video 📺 at 👉 <https://youtu.be/tw-2YxmyLPI> , “So if rates decrease and those older bonds become more attractive, would that in theory help the stocks performance? ... My understanding of the fund based on your concern is that due to current market conditions and the funds heavy weight on small business debt and bonds it's only problematic for that stock in this current condition. So if the opposite were to happen. Rates drop, those older bonds would regain some of there value and at an even deeper level I would have to imagine those small businesses should have an easier time performing as well correct? I unfortunately fell for the yield trap so I really need to dive as deep as possible to understand my situation. Thanks for the info!”
