During my time at university, I had many chances to try new things. Each experience was meaningful to me. Today, I want to talk about the most memorable experience.
One day in my science class, I received a difficult question. I read some books, but they were not very helpful. Then, I worked with my friends all day. They found information, and I helped them understand it. After that, we rushed to prepare a presentation. It was challenging, but our teacher liked it, and we felt happy because we achieved our goal.	I wanted to buy a new laptop, so I saved money, but there were many choices and I could not decide. During my busiest time with exams, I joined a badminton contest with a 20-million prize, even though I had never played before. Training was difficult, but I did not give up. In the end, I won the prize, bought a new laptop, and learned to play badminton better.	I went on a picnic with my family. At the picnic, I met a man who was not polite. He dropped trash on the ground, and when I told him to stop, he spoke to me in a rude way. Later, I had trouble putting up my tent, and the same man helped me, which surprised me. After that, he said sorry, we laughed together, talked more, and became friends.	During a Tet holiday, I went to Vinpearl Land in Nha Trang with my family for the first time. It rained heavily at first, so we could not play games like the free-fall tower or roller coaster, and we felt sad. We walked around and waited. When the rain stopped, we played extreme games such as zipline and roller coasters, and then watched an impressive dolphin show.
Overall, this experience was very meaningful to me. It made me feel very happy, and I will never forget it.
