Bust Sizing chart

During the instructions for the first section, we will also be following a chart for the star.

Start this chart on your 4th row, and count to make sure the 19 stitches for the square are in the middle of that side. It should end on your 12th row.

You can do it on any side of the raglan, this will be the front side.

XS: Ch 92, X= 23

S: Ch 100, X=25

M: ch 108, X=27

L: ch 116, X=29

XL: ch 124, X=31

1X: ch 132, X=33

2X: ch 140, X=35

3X: ch 148, X=37

4X: ch 156, X=39

Slip stitch into the first stitch.

Row 1: ch 3 more. Dc X, starting in the 4th stitch. Ch 2. Dc X. Ch2. Dc X. Ch2. Dc X. Ch2 into the first Dc stitch. Ch3.

Row 2: Dc X. Dc in the ch 2 space. Ch 2. Dc in the ch 2 space. Dc X. Dc in the ch 2 space. Ch 2. Dc in the ch 2 space. Dc X. Dc in the ch 2 space. Ch 2. Dc in the ch 2 space. Dc X. Dc in the ch 2 space. Ch 2.

Repeat this for every row, but instead of crocheting X and Y Dc, just Dc in every stitch until the ch 2 space, then Dc in the ch 2 space, Ch 2, and Dc in the ch 2 space. You should be increasing 8 stitches every row.

Continue until, when worn around your neck and on your shoulders, it is long enough for 2 of the closest corners to meet under your armpit and fit comfortably around your shoulder.

Here is a suggestion of how many rows to do before its big enough, depending on your size.

14 rows

** for sizes XS, S, and M, your work will probably be long enough to reach the bottom of your armpits before the graph is finished. I simply used the other 2 sides of the square as the sleeves, and continued working on the graph on the front side of the chest.

** Additionally, if your row ends and begins on one of the sleeve sides of your square, like mine did, I just cut my work there and inserted my hook into the chain 2 space of the front or back side of the shirt.

Once it's long enough, chain 3 and turn your work at the end of the row. your next round crocheted will be about half as many stitches.

Row 1: double crochet into the first stitch, not counting your chain 3 post as a stitch. Double crochet in every stitch normally until you get to the first ch2 space. Double crochet into the space once, and instead of chaining 2, skip all of the next stitches until the NEXT ch2 space. Double crochet once into this ch2 space. Then continue to dc normally. Double crochet in every stitch normally until you get to the following ch2 space. Double crochet into the space once, and instead of chaining 2, skip all of the next stitches until the NEXT ch2 space. Double crochet once into this ch2 space. Then continue to dc normally until the end of the round. Slip stitch into the first stitch, and chain 3.

Row 2: double crochet in every stitch around. At the end, slip stitch into the first stitch, and chain 3.

Continue double crocheting in every row around. The number of rows you should do depends on your bust size! You should continue until the top is long enough to cover your chest and reach the bottom of your ribcage, if you want the same fit as mine in the pictures. Here is a suggestion of how many rows you may need:

Bust

32-33" (XS): 15-16 rows

34-35" (S): 16-17 rows

36-37" (M): 17-18 rows

38-39" (L): 18-19 rows

40-41" (XL): 19-20 rows

42-44" (1X): 20-21 rows

46-49" (2X): 21-22 rows

50-53" (3X): 22-23 rows

Border:

Single crochet around both arm holes and the bottom hem of the shirt.

You can also single crochet around the neckhole, but I am not.
