

Hello, this is Mizuchi.

Feel free to use CTRL+F to find a specific answer/question.

I want to give a run down on why I am deciding to go back to my past life, why I made the alias "Mizuchi" in the first place, and answer some common questions that will likely arise soon. Let me be perfectly clear - this is NOT DRAMA and NOT ANYTHING the individual I am talking about DOES NOT ALREADY KNOW. This is not for clout. It's just an explanation. With that, let's continue.

I made "Mizuchi" to protect and be able to continue to publicly interact with my friend who started a new streaming life and became famous because of it. While Mizuchi was in part for me, it was MOSTLY for him so we could hopefully continue our friendship publicly - which is something we BOTH wanted. Unfortunately for the both of us, we were blindsided by a lot of issues in doing this. I worked on a lot of projects up until recently for said friend too, so it was also a way for him to "commission" me without compromising certain things.

In short, the name, vtuber, socials, brand, etc was all created so I could continue to help and interact with my best friend. Before this, we were a streaming duo. We both ended up on each other's streams a lot, streamed for each other, and more. We shared a community. While we knew we couldn't continue a lot of things, it was in our hope we could still do the occasional thing together. We were inseparable friends for 3+ years - sharing all of our hardships, joys, secrets, interests, and whatever else. We talked nearly all day every day. We were as close as close gets, I could detail almost his entire life and family. We wanted to continue doing what we were doing together.

After a certain "incident", this would quickly no longer become the case. I would consider this the point where a rift started to grow in our friendship. We were operating like we did streaming together before this new journey - I had moderated for him for years at this point, ran his moderation team in the past, used my discretion because he had zero rules/guidance, and I was known to joke and play around with his current and past community - however parts of his new community did not enjoy this and things got quickly out of hand. This planted a seed of guilt and shame into my friend where he started to blame himself for everything, which in part slowly started to ruin our friendship. I did my best to reassure him that it was OK and that I was going to push through it, but it just didn't work. I still believe this gnaws at him and is part of the reason why he chooses not to speak to me anymore. While there are a lot - and I mean a LOT - of other reasons, I consider this the catalyst.

At this point, I can hardly consider us acquaintances. When he decided to stop talking to me because of a mistake he made and fully owned up to, I was devastated. He unmodded me from his channel without telling me. I could only blame myself. I was, and have been, having a hard time IRL due to a lot of issues - mentally and physically. The best friend I could confide in, talk to, do things with, asked me to hang out with him, used me as an excuse not to work, asked me to work for him, etc decided I was too “stressful” for them and stopped talking to me cold turkey. The worst part is I knew he was, and I suspect still is, struggling and needed someone to talk to as well. We were watching a lot of anime together, relaxing, decompressing, and sharing ideas daily then suddenly nothing. This has been gnawing at my mental health for months now. I have horrible self esteem issues and this made me lose a lot of confidence and self worth (which I was already struggling with) and I have been working hard on rebuilding that.

Which brings me to why I am rebranding.

While yes, I do not want to lose my partnered status with Twitch, that was just the push I needed to finally do this. I want to go back to being me, not having to tiptoe around things, and just relax and enjoy streaming again without fear of this individual. Going back to my “past life” is a way to distance myself from this person (even though we spent more time together then) because I have had this alias for over 15 years (oh god I'm old help) and it's just me. Raw, unfiltered, not living for someone else. Just me. And just being me is the type of self empowerment I need right now. That's the best explanation I can give.

To the people who want to blame or shame me:

Go ahead. I am not the perfect person and never claimed to be. He nor I are bad people. We're just people. I did rely on my friend a lot, as he relied on me a lot too. I listened, sympathized, cared, and looked out for his mental and physical struggles as much as he did mine. No one was forced to be friends with each other and clearly still aren't forced as I have respected his boundaries this entire time. Never once have I blamed him and I still don't. I kept making excuses to myself to explain away certain behaviors of his and I still don't blame him. I want nothing but his success and wellbeing. If you choose not to believe me that's fine. I am intentionally not sitting here shittalking him or talking ill of him because I still want people to see him as he is and make their own assumptions as they wish. It's left vague for that reason as well. If you want to say I'm going to cause “trouble” or “drama” for him - he's a big boy. And honestly, if there is any “trouble” that comes out of this, it's not his or my fault - it's yours tbh lmao. I'm allowed to speak about my experiences and my mind as much as he is and nothing said here is anything he is not already aware of as I mentioned at the beginning. I matter as a human being no less than he does.

If by happenstance you think or know who I am talking about, please for the love of god do not harass them. I swear to Jesus Christ himself, have some self control and decency.

FAQ:

Q: What's the new (old) name?

A: Raziel Warmonic. But please, just call me Raz or Raziel.

Q: Where did that come from nani the fuck?

A: Raziel is from my love of The Legacy of Kain series. Warmonic was a warlock my dad named in World of Warcraft. I always thought it sounded cool so I've used it as my alias' last name if needed.

Q: Will you keep the same Twitter?

A: Yes!! I am just going to change the handle.

Q: Where do I find/follow you now?

A: The only thing that is changing is where I am streaming on Twitch. You can find me on my old channel here at twitch.tv/raziel

Q: When are you making the switch?

A: June 23rd along with my new outfit debut!! WOOOO!!!

Q: Are you still going to be vtubing?

A: Yes.

Q: What about your model?

A: I am still going to be the water dragon vtuber you love - don't worry. I love my model a lot. :)

Q: Is your new outfit going to be your default model now?

A: No, but I do want to use it, so when I first debut it I may use it a lot! I still plan to use my original model.

Q: So how long have you REALLY been streaming?

A: I never kept this a secret, but about 9 or so years now. I have been a partner on Twitch since mid 2015.

Q: Why did you make a new account then?

A: You need to read my life story above to get the full picture, but TL;DR it was to protect a previous friend who became famous.

Q: Then why the change back...? Do you not need to protect them anymore?

A: Really, if you're that curious, read the book I wrote above.

Q: Ok, then why vtubing?

A: I had a vtuber before "Mizuchi". I got tired of webcams. I like doing a lil bit of improv as well. Simple as that.

Q: Can I see your old vtuber? O:

A: Sure, I still love and adore her. [\[OUTFIT 1\]](#) [\[OUTFIT 2\]](#)

Q: Do you plan on using her again?

A: Not at the moment, but she holds a special place in my heart. I love the Egyptian theme especially. Right now I wish to continue being your cute water dragon hag. New Egyptian themed outfit when!

Q: Alright mystery woman what other secrets do you hold?

A: A lot. :) Come to my streams to ask teehee.

Q: I have a question but you didn't answer. :(

A: You can @ me on Twitter here or ask me on my marshmallow (<https://marshmallow-qa.com/mizuchivt>) and I'll answer.