As part of registering for a College Board Advanced Placement course offered by North Wake College and Career Academy, all teachers and administrators expect students to prepare for and take the AP exams for each corresponding course in May. Teachers dedicate considerable classroom instruction time to helping ensure that students are prepared for their AP exams. In addition, research shows that students who take their AP exams, regardless of their final score on College Board tests, perform at higher levels in college and graduate at a much higher four-year rate compared to peers who opt out of their AP exams. Though it is not suggested, families may request to opt their student out of taking an AP College Board exam. Any student in an AP course who opts out of an AP exam may be expected to sit for a final examination in the course at the assigned period during exams (please check with your teacher and school specific testing exemption policy).

Having read and understood the information articulated with regard to my child's College Board Advanced Placement testing expectation, we choose to exercise the option NOT to have our child registered to take the AP exam. We understand that if our child changes her/his mind at a later date, the option to take the exam may no longer be available and if so, extra fees might apply.
