

The New Deal

Opinion- State Election Predictions

By ItsZippy23

Constituents voting in Prince William, CH

It is election day. Today, millions of Americans will go out to vote to select their state assembly people, and in Atlantic and Sierra, their Governors. Every single party gave it a good fight, and nobody's going to know what the public will be thinking on election day and what the results will yield. Here are my predictions for the State elections.

DISCLAIMER: Although this is published by the Democratic Party, the opinions of the author do not represent the opinions of The New Deal, or of the Democratic Party.

State Assemblies

Atlantic:

Atlantic was the only state where the Democratic Party did not run a list in. However, a star-studded Socialist and Republican list is teasing voters with noteworthy names. The Socialists in particular had major names, including Speaker Parada, Representative PGF3, Representative KayAyTeeEe, and Representative Dartholo. The GOP had some noteworthy names, including dandwhitreturns and Superpacman04. The Socialists, in one of their few reliable states, pulled out with amazing campaigning, including some unique events, such as a sermon by Rep. PGF and Rep. Dartholo going on a hike with his supporters, the Socialists really were unique. However, I do believe Assemblyman dandwhitreturns plan for renewing New York City's transit was one of the top policies shown, it will be a hard fought race. However, with the added support of the Democrats, it's likely the Socialist's will continue their hold of the assembly.

Prediction: 5 Soc, 2 GOP

Chesapeake

In the constant swing state of Chesapeake, there's likely gains to be had and losses. Chesapeake's Democratic list contained 3 former Democratic presidential hopefuls in NinjaDragon, ResignationGaines, and Plebit8080, as well as former Senator CDocwra and Chesapeake Democratic Chairman Googmastr. The Socialists had another former presidential hopeful in Tucklet1911, and even at the bottom, their frontrunner in dewey-cheateam. As all 5 of Chesapeake's congressional offices are held by the GOP, most expect them to do well here.

However, they certainly don't have high hopes, only naming 4 people to their list. Surprisingly, an independent in abrokenhero, who's not noteworthy enough to gain any major media attention, and likely, won't receive the votes to gain a spot. Still, with multiple noteworthy names and people in power, this looks a very strong win for the coalition

Prediction: 4 Dem, 2 Soc, 1 GOP, 0 Independents

Dixie

Heading down south to Dixie, this is expected to be an easy win for the coalition in one of their shared strongholds. It's crazy to think about 2 years ago, this was a stronghold for the GOP, when now, they only contain one seat as a major seat in Senate Majority Leader PrelateZeratul's seat. People such as speaker Tripplyons18, stormstopper, and ClearlyInvisible led a major charge for the Democrats, while Senator Banana_Republic_ was strongly advocating for Socialist policies. Independent CryDefiance threw up a fight, but similar to abrokenhero, it won't be enough to get a spot. I expect this will be nothing more than a Coalition landslide to work with Governor BNG.

Prediction: 3 Dems, 3 Socs, 1 GOP, 0 Independents

Lincoln/Great Lakes

In Lincoln, what was once seen as a liberal utopia, progress has started to be rolled back. An election of a GOP governor and a Democratic assembly was certain to be tense, but with the sudden removal of Governor Froggy and replacement with OkBlackBelt, the liberal policies are starting to be rolled back. The tense moments with the militias in Montana were enough to create a more tense partisan divide. However, the Democrats are expected to do great. However, it can't be confirmed to be true. A full Democratic List, including Murpple, Speaker IGotzDaMastaPlan and the return of cubascastrodistrict, it's likely the Democrats do well. However, model-amn, an independent and leader of the ragtag group of independents running this cycle, is likely to gain a seat. However, this won't stop the Democrats from gaining the assembly.

Prediction: 4 Dems, 2 GOP, 1 Independent

Sierra

Sierra was always seen as a Democratic stronghold, however, the GOP has begun biting away at this stronghold with 3 Representatives and a Senator. Polls have been tied between the Democrats and the Republicans during this period, and it'll be a true close race, as with its Gubernatorial race. This will be a main race to see who controls Sierra, as it was the state which led Gunnz011 to the Oval Office. Another independent in later_slater1407 won't make an impact, as with the independents in Chesapeake and Dixie. However, since knowing the trends and how the last State Election has gone to the GOP, it's likely they'll keep this, but narrowly.

Prediction: 4 GOP, 3 Dems, 0 Independent

Gubernatorial Races

Atlantic

Atlantic's gubernatorial race is incredibly fascinating. As expected, the Socialist nominee was incumbent Governor UnorthodoxAmbassador, and surprisingly, the GOP selected Senator _MyHouseisOnFire_, who unsuccessfully ran for Governor last year. With multiple intense plot twists, including the interesting nomination of former Speaker of the House Shitmemery to be UA's running mate, it was going to be a close race. However, since this is a Socialist Stronghold, and polls seem to shift now towards the Governor, this will go to the last votes. However, knowing Atlantic's trends, this is going to the Socialists, but I won't be suprised if Fire pulls off the victory.

Prediction: Tilt Coalition (UnorthodoxAmbassador/Shitmemery)

Sierra

Another interesting Gubernatorial fight in Sierra has occurred. Senator hurricaneoflies has gone up against Assembly speaker ChaoticBrilliance. This race was expected to be an easy win for the Senator, but both Brilliance and an Independent, drunk_king_robert, have given their fair crack at it, and like Atlantic, the last votes will decide it. However, some great last events and strong debating, I believe Hurricane will pull it off. However, like in Atlantic, Speaker Brilliance may end up winning.

Prediction: Lean Democrat (Hurricane), but barely.

THE FINAL PREDICTIONS IS AS FOLLOWS:

State Assemblies:

Atlantic: Socialist

Chesapeake: Democrat

Dixie: Democrat

Lincoln: Democrat

Sierra: GOP

Governors:

Atlantic: Tilt Coalition (UnorthodoxAmbassador)

Sierra: Lean Democrat (hurricaneoflies)

So, why am I predicting a Blue Wave?

I'm predicting a blue (and maroon) wave not just because of this being The New Deal, which is not the case, but the Democrats have shown up strong in this election. The Democrats brought out a well oiled machine, and their supporters are more likely to go out and vote today. The only races I think may have a slight chance of going to the GOP is the two gubernatorial and possibly the Sierra assembly. But, we'll find out tonight.

ItsZippy23 is a Democratic Representative in Congress for Atlantic, as well as the Atlantic Democratic State Chair.

META: Make sure to fill out your election predictions using <https://docs.google.com/spreadsheets/d/1vGm2xeaZHR6jrRbhBKsPgeYRmRHST3YgPhBGXCmZM8s/edit?usp=sharing>! Made by srajar, this is good to see everyone's thoughts!