TREES!

Trees fascinate children and spark their curiosity and wonder. Close your eyes, and think of your childhood memories that involved trees. Did you ever climb a tree? Did you chase and hide behind a tree? Did you lie down under a tree and wonder whether it touched the sky? Throughout this study we will build upon children's interest in trees to help them explore science and social studies. Rather than emphasize naming different trees we will focus on helping children develop an understanding of the characteristics of trees and their roles in our lives.

We will be planting a tree with members of the Potawatomi Language School and they will teach us words for: tree (mtēk), earth (ke), and leaves (tatpēkwen). During the study the children will use skills in literacy, math, technology, and the arts to investigate and represent their knowledge about trees.

Here's a fun fall song you can sing with your children!

Second Step:

We are beginning a new unit in our social and emotional curriculum. Throughout the next few weeks we will be learning about Empathy. The children will learn to identify and understand their own and others' feelings. They will also learn how to show care for others. Here are some great books you can read with your children to build on these skills.

Glad Monster Sad Monster By Ed Emberley and Anne Miranda
Sometimes I'm Scared By Jane Annunziata and Marc Nemiroff
When Sophie Gets Angry—Really, Really Angry By Molly Bang
Whoever You Are By Mem Fox
I'm Sorry (Blue's Clues) By Justin Chanda
Somewhere Today: A Book of Peace By Shelley Moore Thomas

Please continue to review each week's lessons (homelink) sent home on Thursdays to support your child in what they have learned that week. Thank you!
