This comprehensive CS: GO betting guide, therefore, shares everything esports bettors need to know before getting started.

What is CS: GO Betting?

CS: GO is one of the most popular esports games that involves shooting. Basically, there are two teams, each having five individuals. One team, the terrorist side, is on offense. On the other hand, the counter-terrorist side is on the defensive. The aim of this game, therefore, is for terrorists to either plant bombs that blow up after 45 seconds or to kill members of the defense team within 1:55 time in every round.

On the other hand, the counter-terrorist side aims to stop the offensive team from planting the bombs, either by denying them the chance to plant bombs or by killing the entire group. Usually, every game has 30 rounds; therefore, the team switches sides after 15 rounds. The winner of the game is the team that wins 16 or more rounds but in case there is a tie, they're awarded extra time.

In counter-strike, the two teams use weapons such as pistols, knives, shotguns, and grenades, just to mention a few. Each player will start with a side pistol and $800, which are used to buy grenades, armor, or upgrade the gun. In every winning round, players get extra money. Here is the table of the weapons and the money per kill.

There are different types of bets available at the right online betting sites, such as Vave Casino. These markets range from popular events such as the Y-Games PRO Series, RES European Series, and RES European Masters Fall. So, here are the betting markets available.

Match Winner

This is undeniably the most traditional market in the whole betting industry. It's considered to be the simplest, as it involves only choosing the winner. Due to the nature of esports games, the option of a draw is excluded from the winner markets. Therefore, if it's a game between Enterprise Esports and Sinners eSports, you'll only choose one of them.

Total Maps

CS:GO allows you to place bets on the total maps that will be played in the game. You may find this market complicated at first glance, but it's easy to bet as you are betting whether the count of maps in a certain game is over or under a certain figure. With that in mind, a platform like Vave Casino offers options like over 2.5 maps and under 2.5 maps for the best-of-three (BO3) series.

Map Handicap

This is another popular market that is offered where one team is highly favored over another. For example, if there is a match between Permitta Esports (favorite) and Rebels Gaming (underdog), the favorite is given a disadvantage. At Vave Casino, you'll find options like -1.5 for the favorite and +1.5 for the underdog.

Correct score

Predicting the actual outcome is a bit challenging; however, this market offers higher rewards. Here, you choose the exact final points, for example, 2-0 or 2-1 in a BO3 match. To make this bet, you'll need a better understanding of the team's abilities and their methods of play.

Key Terms and Concepts

Here are a few counter strike betting terms you need to understand:

- Ace: When a single player kills all five enemies in one round.
- Aimbot: It's a cheating program that allows players to shoot the enemy with perfect accuracy.
