7. Summary of the event:

On 22nd January 2020, the students of Communication for Development facilitated a workshop on Participatory Audio and Video Production with the help of Mr. Debarun Dutta, the executive director of Drishti. It was a Five-Days workshop from 22nd January to 26th January 2020. It was a successful workshop for the students of Communication for Development as well as the school students who participated in it.

A participatory video is a form of participatory media in which a group or community creates its film. The idea behind this is that making a video is easy and accessible, and is a great way of bringing people together to explore issues, voice concerns or simply to be creative and tell stories. It is therefore primarily about the process, though high quality and accessible films (products) can be created using these methods if that is the desired outcome.

The workshop was very beneficial for the students of Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed High School, Borghat, Panchmile Higher Secondary School and Napaam MV School, where they were able to learn about the basics of videography and interviewing techniques. On the other hand, we also learned so many useful things from the workshop. It is a very good step to educate the students about the power of a camera and how they can use it as a tool to solve their problems.

The main goal of the workshop was to create three short films on three different issues in the community/school. Of which, topics were decided by the students themselves, we worked as a facilitator throughout the process of making the movies.
