

FreeWheels

for

Kids

Overview:

Kids can do a whole lot more than adults give them credit for! Kids ages 12 and up can sign up for a six-part program which will give them the skills they need to maintain and safely ride their bikes anywhere, and the opportunity to earn a refurbished bike.

How it works:

Youth learn the basics of bicycle repair while carefully going over donated children's bikes, which are donated to younger children. After four sessions, they are allowed to choose a donated bicycle of their own to refurbish and keep! Youth who "earn-a-bike" are encouraged to come back to help others learn as volunteers in later classes, as well as to get out and go on group rides on their new bikes.

The last two sessions are focused on repairing the bicycle the youth will keep and on learning how to ride safely. The very last thing we will do as a group is go on a ride together around the neighborhood!
