

[False]Amakuni Archer

Amakuni Yasutsuna (天國 安綱) is the legendary [sword]smith who created the first single-edged longsword (tachi) with curvature along the edge in the Yamato Province around 700 AD. Employed by the Emperor of Japan to forge weapons.

After the Emperor and his army returned with more than half of the swords broken, none of them would look at Akamuni. Their soul as a weaponsmith was inflamed by this, their pride wounded. Analyzing all the broken weapons they saw how they had been shattered by striking upon hard defenses. While the weapons had superior killing power, against a harder defense or another weapon they were fragile.

Swearing to themselves they would forge ones that would not break they entered their forge and sought enlightenment. For seven days and seven nights they sought the answer to their desire. Their eyes saw not the present, but peered into the curtains of time.

The Shinto gods came to Amakuni in their visions and showed them the curved sword, the tachi. An illusion to hide the future they saw where humans forged weapons that could slay them.

And yet, a glimpse of it made its way through their interference. The image of the Black Barrel was burned into their very soul as a smith. A weapon that would be the concentrated spite of humanity. A weapon that would not ever break upon any defense, never shatter and always slay what it strikes. The weapon that would be used at the very end times.

This servant is not that person. They are not the one who forged the Black Barrel. Who poured their heart and soul into its production. Whose every step of their life was taken to bring it to completion.

They are the weapon.

STR - D
END - D
AGI - A
MGI - C
LCK - A

Magic Resistance - A 5

Their strong anti ether properties also lend themselves to resisting magic of the highest tier.

Independent Action - D 2

As a weapon Amakuni has only limited independent action. At their core they are a weapon that is meant to be wielded.

Aiming [Black Barrel] - B 4

Their weapon and their body are two halves of the same. To hit a target is more natural to them than the very act of breathing. This skill is a lower rank and will function with no other weapon.

Clairvoyance - C 3

Capable of keeping track of fast-moving object within a range of four kilometers.

Battle Continuation [One final bullet] - B 4

They will always be capable of one final NP release at full potency no matter their physical condition. Nothing except instant death is capable of stopping them from fulfilling their purpose.

Determination of Steel - B 4

The mind of a weapon that will never break. Never waver. Never falter.

Noble Phantasm

Black Barrel

EX Rank - Anti Ether Weapon The Last Weapon of Humanity 4

Fired without restraint there is nothing that will not die. The crystallization of the sum of all of humanity's weapons. No secondary purposes, not meant to inspire hope or to defend the innocent. Yet neither a weapon to cause fear and terror. Merely to destroy, to slay, to defeat everything that it is wielded against.

A Rank Black Barrel [Anti Personnel] - A 4

Even without being fully released, every shot from the black barrel is a threat unto the existence of the target. Blocking it is worthless, the only hope is to not be hit. Any lesser defense, or counter attack will be defeated. Any that equal it will merely be shattered.

<https://danbooru.donmai.us/posts/2841878?q=parent%3A2841874>