

A Google Document is easy to create and can be downloaded and used on just about any word processor imaginable. Furthermore, Google Documents is a great introduction to cloud computing which is the future of all computing.

In the very near future I will blog about how I use Google Apps in the classroom, but in the meantime, here is a great introduction.

Since we're talking about being able to get at school work from home, it is worth mentioning that Google Apps can be accessed from anywhere with an Internet connection.

Here is a link back to the blog.
