

Privacy Policy for One-Click YouTube Transcript

Last Updated: 6/8/25

This privacy policy outlines the data handling practices for the "One-Click YouTube Transcript" Chrome Extension (the "Extension").

We are committed to protecting your privacy. This Extension is designed to be simple, secure, and respectful of your data.

Data We Handle

The Extension needs to access specific information to perform its core function. This includes:

1. Website Content (YouTube Transcripts): The Extension reads the publicly available transcript text from the YouTube video page you are currently viewing. This data is processed locally within your browser to format it according to your settings.
2. User Settings: The Extension uses Chrome's built-in storage API to save your preferences, such as whether to include timestamps or the video title. This is stored locally in your browser and syncs across your devices if you are logged into a Google account.

How We Use Data

- The transcript text is used only to copy it to your clipboard when you click the "Copy Transcript" button.
- Your settings are used only to format the transcript before it is copied.

Data We DO NOT Collect or Store

The Extension DOES NOT collect, store, or transmit any of the following:

- Personally Identifiable Information (PII) such as your name, email address, or IP address.
- Your browsing history.
- User activity like clicks (other than on the extension's own buttons), mouse movements, or keystrokes.

- Any data from the transcript or your settings is ever sent to our servers or any third-party service. All processing happens on your computer.

Permissions

The Extension requires the following permissions to function:

- storage: To save your formatting preferences.
- clipboardWrite: To copy the formatted transcript text to your clipboard.
- ://*.youtube.com/: To add the "Copy Transcript" button to YouTube pages and fetch the transcript data from YouTube's servers.

Changes to This Policy

We may update this privacy policy in the future. Any changes will be reflected in a new version of the extension, and you will be notified through the Chrome Web Store.
