Summary

I am Alter Roman, a white, immigrant, trans and non-binary bodyworker, community worker, graphic designer having lived most of my life in so-called Montréal. My intention is to break isolation through spaces where people can heal, (un)learn and build networks of care. I co-organize an initiative centered around mutual aid and resource distribution with the intention to destabilize the systems of oppression by creating possibilities for communal care and collective liberation. My goal is to create work and community space “for us, by us”. This slogan expresses my intention to prioritize research and creation processes that engage with political and radical lineages of care work and resistance.
