Course Description:

This is an introductory-level ceramics course in which students design and construct art objects using clay. They learn about form and function, actual texture, and bisque and glaze firing techniques. Students create clay bodies using pinch, slab, coil, and wheel-thrown methods. They develop criteria for evaluating ceramic forms and participate in critical processes. Students analyze, select, and curate an exhibition of their work collaboratively.

This course meets the CSU/UC Visual and Performing Arts requirement.

Recommended Skills:

Skills gained during Art 1,2 and/or Design in Mixed Media class.
