

"The most common way people give up their power is by thinking they don't have any."
— Alice Walker

We weren't born powerless.
We were taught to feel that way.

Somewhere between the overdue bills, the broken promises, and the paycheck that never seems to stretch far enough, we started believing the lie:

"This is just the way it is."

"People like us don't get ahead."

"I'm not good with money."

But what if the real problem isn't the money—it's the mindset?

Power isn't always loud. It's not just in boardrooms or behind podiums.

Sometimes power looks like:

- Saying no to debt.
- Teaching your kids about compound interest before the world teaches them shame.
- Walking into a bank and asking questions until they run out of answers.

Power is knowledge.

Power is awareness.

Power is the moment you stop surviving and start strategizing.

And they know that. That's why the system keeps whispering:

"Don't worry about it."

"It's too complicated."

"Let the experts handle it."

No.

You are the expert of your experience.

And with the right tools, you become the expert of your economy.

This is exactly why The Axe Method was born—not to just give you information, but to hand you a weapon.

To remind you:

- You're not broken.
- You're not behind.
- You're not powerless.

You were just never taught the rules on purpose.
But once you learn them?
You stop playing the game and start changing it.

So today, ask yourself:
Who told me I didn't have power?
And why did I believe them?

Your money, your time, your future—all of it is waiting for you to stop shrinking and start building.

You have power.
And now?
It's time to act like it.
