

The Triple Alliance/Monarchy

Species: Jorgasians

Location: Scii Aeroix, Planets Scii and Athana

Jorgasians are a bipedal avian species. They are capable of short spurts of flight with their wings. Jorgasians have arms with four taloned fingers arranged in a way that doesn't require a thumb like possessed by humans. They are covered in feathers, ranging from bright, tropical colours to dull grey and brown. The plumage is generally brighter on females and are shed every two years. Their diet consists of a blend consisting of mainly fruits, nuts and occasionally seafood. Their bills contain molars along the side that are used for chewing.

Jorgasian cities are mostly built along the coast, and are comprised of tall, angular buildings made of shiny chrome-like metals and feature bright blue lights. The buildings feature many terraced gardens on the sides, and are covered in many flowering vines on the side. The cities are often planned in the shape of a circle, with 4 main avenues leading to the middle. The avenues are long public parks. The Jorgasians have a long-time tradition of research into Biology, namely Genetics. They are masters of manipulating life; creating high-yield crops that can be adapted to any environment, or stimulants and medicine that can perform miracles. Their agriculture relies and mainly two fields: mushrooms and fish. While they also consume fruits and nuts, these fields only comprise of 20% of the total production altogether. Vandusian mushrooms are grown widespread and are the main food source of the Jorgasians. The mushrooms are a gift from the past, an ancient species that was first created on Vandus Prime. These fungus can eat almost anything organic, and even inorganic compounds. While they have to be watched closely to insure they don't cause any damage, they are extremely useful at consuming any waste that cannot be recycled. As a result the worlds and communities that the Jorgasians inhabit tend to be pristine and clear of refuse.

The Triple Alliance in theory is a Constitutional Monarchy, although it is much more complex than that. While the Monarch still holds political power, the elected constituency holds more power than the Monarch if it could work together. The highest ranked elected officials represent the different branches of society: Remembrance, Knowledge, Defense and Industry. Remembrance oversees the history and culture of the Jorgasians, Knowledge the continuation of science and discovery, Defense oversees the protection of the Triple Alliance and Industry controls the many facets of labor. Some branches overlap in certain areas, like Knowledge and Industry both oversee financing of robotics and electronics development, while certain branches control functions that would seemingly not be administered by them, like Remembrance overseeing Vandusian fungus.

There are no political parties: each branch is the closest thing to a political party, and every one of them is always in power. The elections have citizens vote for the heads of each branch.

I have been a member of the Elithian Alliance since the original RP.