

(posted here because the character archive is broken)

Age: 19

Gender: F

Species: Earth Pony

Appearance: A red earth pony with dark yellow eyes usually covered by goggles. If she's ever without her goggles, her eyes seem to swirl when you look at them long enough. She has generally rounded black mane and tail that she keeps unkempt.

Cutie mark: Is a dark yellow gear that matches the color of her eyes.

Personality:

- She has a sense of humor
- Loves to talk
- Extremely forgetful
- She has a temper
- very head strong, doesn't give up

Backstory:

Growing up, Witty always had a slight memory problem, which earned her the nickname Lost Thought. She would often forget things that she was told: rules, names, and worst of all her studies; and that's all everyone in her family seemed to care about. She came from a line of the most ingenious minds in Equestria, at least to her, and she would never live up to that legacy.

Often, Witty would lock herself in her room to avoid dealings with her family. This left her with little to do, save for study and play with devices she would... 'borrow' from her brother's lab. One day, while Witty was 'testing' a device her brother had so carelessly left lying about, she tripped and accidentally broke it. Fearing the worse, she took the device to her room and began attempting to fix it.

The repair was crude, and due to her limited resources of electrical tape, a screwdriver, and the miscellaneous objects around her room, the process of the repair was more than unconventional; but somehow she managed to fix the device. When she 'returned' her brother's 'misplaced' device, he immediately knew that it was tampered with; but to both Witty and her brother's surprise, the device seemed to work better than before. It was at that moment that Witty discovered that she had a gift.

She would later continue to become an impressive inventor and repair pony.

Other:

Notable inventions:

- 1) Para-Sight: A small machine that looks like a parasprite. It's useful for retrieving items, finding items, and directions. There's a wireless relay inside of it linked to her goggles, so she can see through the parasight's eyes. She keeps a red one on her at all times.

- 2) Lightning bug: Much like the parasight, however its sole purpose is to deliver high voltage electrical currents to whatever it touches. Can be a non-lethal taser. Can also be used for repairing / charging electrical devices.
- 3) Firefly: (she likes parasprites alright) can heat itself up to be harmful to touch and ignite flammable objects. It also serves as a blow torch / lighter.
- 4) Paratool: (looks like a parasprite, bleh) Effectively a hands off multitool. It can fly and use its' body as a multitude of simple tools (except a hammer). EX: Its' tongue is a screwdriver.

She known as the Thought family failure. She not very proud of this stigma and works hard to show others that she's capable.

She can usually be found in a scrap shop called the Lost and Found. "You lose something, break something, or want to find something new entirely? I'm your mare!"

She loves to write and draw in a small journal. It mainly used as a way for her to keep track of her memories and a blueprint journal.

She is almost never without a wrench.

She will almost never remember your name.

She's over confident at times and believes that she can make almost anything, given the right tool and supplies. Sometimes, this over confidence in her abilities causes Witty to skip certain steps in the crafting process...

Her inventory (requested for some adventure rps)

(She's not a hand to hand fighter, seeing as she's physically weak, and will often try to focus on escape or using the environment to her advantage / weakness exploitation.)

-1 memory journal/ blueprint journal

-3 flash grenades

-2 fire bombs (Grenade)

-2 smoke grenades: You do not want this in your eyes, it burns.

-2 protective goggles

-1 spike trap (custom grenade: scatters spikes on the ground, making it hard for earth ponies to run or jump across.)

-her parasprite inventions

And 1 wrench that would probably make Ratchet proud (props if you got the reference).