"You'se Mrs. Mayor Starks, Janie. I god, Ah can't see what uh woman uh yo' stability would want tuh be treasurin' all dat gum-grease from folks dat don't even own de house dey sleep in. 'Tain't no earthly use. They's jus' some puny humans playin' round de toes uh Time." (63)	A.	A.
That night he ordered Janie to tie up her hair around the store. That was all. She was there in the store for him to look at, not those others. (65)	A.	A.

She got up without a word and went off for the shoes. A little war of defense for helpless things was going on inside her. (67)	A.	A.
“Why, Janie! You wouldn’t be seen at uh draggin’-out, wouldja? Wid any and everybody in uh passle pushin’ and shovin’ wid they no-manners selves? Naw, naw!” (71)	A.	A.
Here he was just pouring honor all over her; building a high chair for her to sit in and overlook the world and she here pouting over it! (73)	A.	A.
