How Furnace Repair Works

MARKHAM HEATING & AIR CONDITIONING SYSTEMS

SINCE 1983

When you schedule a service call, our technician arrives for an onsite inspection to assess the issue. We begin with a full system diagnosis to identify concerns such as ignition issues, airflow restrictions, thermostat malfunctions, blower motor failures, or component wear.

Once the issue is identified, repairs or part replacements are completed on-site whenever possible. After repairs, the system is tested to ensure proper operation, improved air quality, and safe performance. We also review any maintenance recommendations and provide personalized support to help prevent future breakdowns.

Heating Systems and Services We Support

Our team repairs and services a wide range of systems, including:

- gas furnace repair
- electric furnace repair
- furnace installation
- furnace installation services
- furnace replacement
- furnace maintenance
- heating repair
- Heat Pumps
- Ductless Heating & Cooling
- Ductless Cooling
- Mini Splits
- floor heating system
- central air
- AC Repair
- Air Conditioner
- Water Heaters
- Air Handler

This allows Markham Heating & Air Conditioning to provide complete heating and cooling support for both residential and commercial properties.

Furnace Repair Cost Factors

The total furnace repair cost depends on several important factors. The type of system, severity of the issue, replacement parts required, and labor time all influence the final cost. Repairs involving blower motors, control boards, or heat exchangers may increase pricing.

Emergency visits and after-hours emergency furnace repair requests may also carry premium charges. During every service call, we explain the pricing clearly so you understand the full scope before work begins.

Additional Comfort and Upgrade Services

Beyond repair work, we also support full comfort upgrades and property improvements. This includes Attic Insulation, improved indoor air quality, and complete home comfort solutions for improved energy efficiency.

For homeowners planning home renovations, our team can coordinate with your general contractor to ensure the HVAC system is properly integrated. We can also assist with rebate eligibility questions when upgrading to efficient heating or cooling equipment.
