

Let's make a paradise for only us two
Can you believe I ended up with you?
"C'mon and stay, you never come around..."
This jealous give and take make memories we hate so you can sing out loud

Hurting me, hurting you, over and over
We said we would stop, but it was all talk, a lie to one another
We hide the truth with wordplay and rhyme
A secret language you won't get just by looking into our eyes

This love that has slowly rotted away
Hidden by the delusion tax we pay
Wake up, hey! When will you realise?

[Chorus]
Android girl
You're making me lose my mind
I don't know who you are anymore, it's as if you were never mine
Yet I, yet I believed in you all this time

Android girl
How long have I felt this way?
The kiss I shared with you was so painful that it took my breath away
I know, although
We restart, we fall apart together
What we have will drag on in this way forever

"Oh gosh you're just so cute, what shall I do with you?"
I'm gonna puke
These pleasantries are nice but don't go biting more than you can chew

Make it stop, make it stop, there's so much guilt
And regret, I don't get how I can forget and start to hope again
And we haven't even come to the end
So much for promising "together forever", we aren't even friends

Is it fine to indulge in you again?
Will I ever feel the same as I did then?
Yes or no? Tell me 'cuz here we go

[Chorus 2]
Android girl
You're making me lose my mind
I'm yours now and forever but do you even like me deep inside?
Guess I, guess I've been lied to this whole damn time

Android girl
How long have I felt this way?
Still coming after me with that knife, I guess some things will never change
And so, although
We'll restart and fall apart together
What we have will drag on in this way forever

Android girl
You're making me lose my mind
I don't know who you are anymore, it's as if you were never mine
Yet I, yet I believed in you all this time

Android girl
How long have I felt this way?
The kiss I shared with you was so painful that it took my breath away
Still though, still though
My ego doesn't want to let go
I hate you more than you'll ever know

(Repeat Chorus 2)

We'll restart, and fall apart together
But what we have will drag on in this way forever

| Translation                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Translyrics                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Might as well create a “together land” Riding on my match up with you “Pay more attention to me, it’s not enough!” Sing it loud! This jealous style dyed in memories We said we wouldn’t keep hurting each other But that was just a lie we said as we made up We deceive each other with misunderstandings You’d be an idiot to say that “you can tell by looking into their eyes” This love has become so rotten to the point where we can say we like the delusion Just realise it already! Android girl You’ve become terrifying Who are you, who has become mine and mine alone? Even though I’ve trusted you all this time Android girl How did I feel for you again? The kiss I shared with you hurt so much I stopped breath All this time 2x No matter how many times we reboot this love Nothing will change, not even the smallest bit “Ah, that’s so cute, what am I gonna do w u?” I’m tired already Resizing flatteries that makes us go dokidoki These simultaneous crimes are upsetting, upsetting I don’t even know how to hope anymore The credits haven’t rolled yet? “i’ll be with you no matter what” is super cringy lmao Is it okay to indulge in “sentiment”? Is it okay to wish for that time? Tell me, yes or no? Android girl You’ve become terrifying I’ve become yours alone, but do you even like me? I guess you tricked me all this time Android girl How did I feel for you again? How many times have you hunted me with those rusty arms? | Let’s make a paradise for only us two Can you believe I ended up with you? “C’mon and stay, you // never come around...” This jealous give and take make memories we hate so you can sing out loud Hurting me, hurting you, over and over We said we would stop, but it was all talk, a lie to one another We hide the truth with wordplay and rhyme A secret language you won’t get just by looking into our eyes This love that has slowly rotted away Hidden by the delusion tax we pay Wake up, hey! When will you realise? Android girl You’re making me lose my mind I don’t know who you are anymore, it’s as if you were never mine Yet I, yet I believed in you all_ this_ time Android girl How long have I felt this way? The kiss I shared with you was so painful that it took my breath away I know, although We restart, we fall apart together What we have will drag on in this way forever “Oh gosh you’re just so cute, what shall I do with you?” I’m gonna puke These pleasantries are nice but don’t go biting more than you can chew Make it stop, make it stop, there’s so much guilt And regret, I don’t get how I can forget and start to hope again And we haven’t even come to the end So much for promising “together forever”, we aren’t even friends Is it fine to indulge in you again? Will I ever feel the same as I did then? Yes or no? Tell me ‘cuz here we go Android girl You’re making me lose my mind I’m yours now and forever but do you even like me deep inside? Guess I, guess I’ve been lied to this whole_ damn_ time |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| All this time 2x No matter how many times we reboot this love Nothing will change, not even the smallest bit Android girl You've become terrifying Who are you, who has become mine and mine alone? Even though I've trusted you all this time Android girl How did I feel for you again? The kiss I shared with you hurt so much I stopped breathing All this time 2x I can't let go of this selfishness You're the only person I won't forgive Android girl You've become terrifying I've become yours(dake), but do you even like me? I guess you tricked me all this time Android girl How did I feel for you again? How many times have you hunted me with those rusty arms? All this time 2x No matter how many times we reboot this love Nothing will change, not even the smallest bit No matter how many times we reboot this love Nothing will change, not even the smallest bit | Android girl How long have I felt this way? Still coming after me with that knife, I guess some things will never change And so, although We'll restart and fall apart together What we have will drag on in this way forever Android girl You're making me lose my mind I don't know who you are anymore, it's as if you were never mine Yet I, yet I believed in you all_ this_ time Android girl How long have I felt this way? The kiss I shared with you was so painful that it took my breath away Still though, still though My ego doesn't want to let go I hate you more than you'll ever know Android girl You're making me lose my mind I'm yours now and forever but do you even like me deep inside? Guess I, guess I've been lied to this whole_ damn_ time Android girl How long have I felt this way? Still coming after me with that knife, I guess some things will never change And so, although We'll restart and fall apart together What we have will drag on in this way forever We'll restart, and fall apart together But what we have will drag on in this way forever |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|