

Re: ACSA's Cancellation of the JAE 79:2 Palestine Issue and Termination of Interim Executive Editor

March 4, 2025

We, the undersigned, call on the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture (ACSA) Board of Directors to take the following actions immediately:

1. Reinstate McLain Clutter as Interim Executive Editor of the Journal of Architectural Education (JAE) and offer a formal acknowledgment of the wrongful nature of his dismissal.
2. Reverse the decision to halt the publication of the Palestine issue and allow it to proceed as planned, without interference or censorship.
3. Issue a public apology to Clutter, the authors, reviewers, and editors of the Palestine issue, and the broader academic community for the harm caused by these actions.
4. Resign from your position on the Board of Directors since you have lost any trust the architecture community had in you after this attack on academic freedom, the mission of the JAE, and architectural education.

We understand that the JAE Editorial Board responded to your halting of the journal's Fall 2025 79:2 issue on Palestine and termination of Interim Executive Editor McLain Clutter in a letter sent to the ACSA Board of Directors on March 3, 2025. Their letter underscores the core principles of higher education, wherein academic freedom ensures the foundational right of scholars to pursue research, teach, and publish without interference from external or institutional pressures. These principles are essential to the advancement of knowledge, the integrity of scholarly work, and the health of democratic societies. Bound by professional ethics and collective responsibility, academic freedom is a safeguard against the suppression of ideas—particularly those that challenge power structures or address contentious issues. The decision by the ACSA Board of Directors to halt the publication of the issue on Palestine and terminate JAE Interim Executive Editor Clutter represents a grave violation of academic freedom and integrity. This act of censorship undermines the peer-review process, disregards the labor of scholars, and perpetuates epistemic violence against those engaged in critical scholarship on Palestine. The actions taken by ACSA in the lead up to this decision further demonstrate the organization has abandoned its core values and commitments to academic freedom and scholarly rigor.

Termed "anticipatory obedience" by the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), the ACSA's cancellation of the Palestine issue and termination of Clutter reflect a capitulation to perceived risks, rather than a principled defense of academic freedom. These actions, as the AAUP warns, go beyond legal requirements and demonstrate a willingness to sacrifice academic integrity for institutional self-preservation. The ACSA's actions not only undermine the JAE's mission but also set a dangerous precedent for the broader academic community. We call on the ACSA to reverse their action and to take a principled stand against the ongoing attack on academic freedom that, if left unchecked, will soon encroach on the work of an increasing number of ACSA constituent scholars.
