This app does not collect any personal information whatsoever.

The app only collects the following information.

1. If the app crashes, then a crash dump is sent to enable the issue to be tracked down and resolved. It contains only technical details: a stack trace, register dump, and error code.
2. Very lightweight analytics, in order to determine which areas of the app are most popular, and which could use more work.

There are buttons which enable you to send me an email, and if you do then I will treat this as private correspondence. I will not sell / give / whatever your contact details to anyone else under any circumstances.
