

South County Art Association Instructor

Ann E. Bianchi

I have been an oil and acrylic painter for most of my life with a significant interest in historical representations of landmarks, nature, and culture. I enjoyed a career as a high school Art teacher and now continue planning classes and workshops throughout Rhode Island. It would be my pleasure to share my creative skills with you. My philosophy is that art should be fun and relaxing for everyone!!

Spending time with art every day is extremely therapeutic for me, and painting is my way of preserving and sharing scenes for others to enjoy. I'm happiest painting gardens of perennials, old stone walls, woodland scenes, and saltwater locations. Recently, I have been enjoying a Non-objective Abstract style of painting, focusing on color theories. My work is featured in juried art shows and gift shops at the Wickford Art Association and the South County Art Association. In addition, I'm presently teaching classes at both associations. Please enjoy a visual tour of my artwork by visiting my website <https://annebianchi.com> for special requests, painting events, and demonstrations.

It is my hope that my paintings and class offerings provide you with relaxing and calming feelings!

Sincerely,

Ann
