

THE LIBERTY PRESS

A RAT RACE?

A REPORT ON RAT ENDORSEMENTS BY THE LIBERTY PRESS

In an important race, every endorsement matters, which is why the Liberty Press has decided to examine some less traditional endorsements. (This article and all of its content is satire)

This set of Senate and House races is proving to be some of the closest on record. With an MoE of 7 +/-, there is almost no certainty in the outcomes. As such, some candidates have turned to some unorthodox methods to secure support, which has led to the rise of a new group of political figures. Enter the rats. These up-and-coming political powerhouses are said to have the power to influence the final outcome of any race. Their endorsements have carried a great deal of weight, even if this is their first time actually handing them out. There are many rats in this field, and lobbying for their support is something that is said to take a large amount of time and effort, but the reward is well worth it. Having one of these rats on your side is one of the most powerful boosts you will ever receive in the world of politics.

As mentioned before, there are many rats¹, but there are two rats who's endorsement seems to be a bit more significant than the others. Of course, that's not to say the other rats aren't powerful, but these two appear to be leaders, and their names are well known within the community. I am, of course, referring to Halo 3 Rat and Fat Rat.

Halo 3 Rat is shown here. Although his resolution is poor, his political power cannot be understated.

These two rats have been handing out endorsements for the past few days now, and they are expected to have an incredible amount of influence over the voters. Although both rats are relatively new to the scene, they've managed to captivate both the American people and the Senate hopefuls, both incumbent and otherwise.

Fat rat is shown here, and his ability to influence elections is growing incredibly large, as is the rat himself. There is no doubt that this rat is going places.

It's already been proven that these two rats carry massive influence. For example, The Liberty Press approached a member of the Dixie State Assembly, CryDefiance (I-DX-1), and when he was asked about the influence Halo 3 Rat wielded, he said "Halo 3 Rat has become an integral and important voice in the electoral process. The insights offered by this wonderful creature cast light on many facets of our democracy and our politicians." There is no doubt that these rats are major forces already within the world of politics, but just who do they support so far?

¹ These rats include Flat Rat, Studios Rat, and any others not yet mentioned

Today we are here to offer insight into one of the two major rats endorsements so far. Today, we are here to discuss Halo 3 Rat's endorsements, and to dissect some of the reasons why the poorly rendered political titan would endorse who he would.

Halo 3 Rat's first endorsement came on September 26th, 2020. From there, we witnessed the birth of a new political dynasty. After donning some well known glasses, the small creature took a large leap into the field of US Senate politics. The candidate Halo 3 Rat selected to endorse first was Senator SELDOM237, the Republican Incumbent Senator from Dixie. This would be the start of a prosperous friendship between the two, as the Senator would later become Halo 3 Rat's official spokesperson.

Shown left - Halo 3 Rat's first endorsement, and the Republican Candidate for the DX Special Senate election, Senator SELDOM237

Since then, the Halo 3 Rat has been largely quiet when it comes to endorsements, but after The Liberty Press sought a direct interview with Halo 3 Rat, with very substantive results.

To begin, the Halo 3 Rat wanted to speak about an earlier remark they had made in regards to the Atlantic Senate race. They were asked who they would endorse in that race, and at the time they said no one. The rat has since said that their stance there has not changed, Halo 3 Rat will not be endorsing anyone in the Atlantic Senate Election. He apologizes to both candidates, but says that he is not well informed on the issues of the region, and would like to learn more about both sides before proceeding. When it comes to the Dixie standard election, Halo 3 Rat also didn't have much to say. Halo 3 Rat will not be endorsing anyone in the planned Dixie Senate race.

In the Chesapeake Senate Race, the Halo 3 Rat has thought long and hard about this one. In the end, as the Halo 3 Rat disagrees with the Green New Deal, saying that it "doesn't cater enough to those of rodent status", Halo 3 Rat has chosen to endorse Melp8836 (R) for CH Senate. In the Lincoln Senate Race, the Halo 3 Rat did not have to think very hard. Halo 3 Rat will be endorsing DDYT (R) for LN Senate. Many people have speculated that Halo 3 Rat is more right-leaning in their views, and these endorsements prove it. For their final race, in the State of Sierra, the Halo 3 Rat once again confessed to not being well informed on the issues of the area. "All I really have to go off of is party lines, and that is something that I will not do." Halo 3 Rat said, clearly upset at their own lack of knowledge.

All and all, the words of Halo 3 Rat are some of the most powerful tools in this election. It's not selling it short to say that these endorsements could change the entire result of an election. Undoubtedly, the words from Halo 3 Rat's fellow rats will also come into effect, such as Fat Rat's endorsements, but today we can only hear from one. Hopefully soon, we can hear from Fat Rat and hear his take on these incredibly important races.

An image that neither The Liberty Press nor Halo 3 Rat has a comment on - Image Credit to CryDefiance