

07 Major detail page

Each degree has two important pages: one that lists all the places you can study the degree (04 Degree Listing), and one that explains what the degree is about (07 Major detail page, which is this page)

Breadcrumb

Everywhere in the entire site, rename the initial “Home” breadcrumb to “Y Ahora Qué”, which is the site name.

The breadcrumb on this page needs additional links:

Y Ahora Qué > University Degrees > Health Sciences > Medical Science

Data box

Remove the Title, Duration and Credits fields, and replace with a link or button that says: “See all Medical Science degrees in Spain”. This link will take users back to the corresponding “04 Degree Listing” page.

Lead Form

Eliminate the form. There should not be a lead capture form on this page. In its place you can put a block named “Medical Science in our Forum”, and below that a list of forum posts that reference this degree like “I need help deciding where to study medicine”, or “Do you think I can get into medical school with my grades?” etc.

Article Index

Above the index items (“What is medical science?”, “What is medical for?” etc.) add a title that says “Index”.

Descriptive Article

- The article portion of the page is going to be quite long (see an example).
- These are the actual article sections we will have:
  - Introduction to [degree name]
  - Is [degree name] for you?
  - What subjects do you study in [degree name]?
  - Job opportunities for [degree name] majors

- Frequently asked questions about [degree name]
- On this page we want the user to click either on one of the recommended degrees, or on the link to see the full listing degrees (the link to 04 Degree Listing). Given the the article section is so long, if possible the design needs to bring these links closer to the top.

Cut off marks (Notas de corte)

- We have decided that this should be a block whose title is “Cut off marks”, and below the title there should be three links:
  - Cut off marks for Medical Science
  - Lowest cut off marks for Medical Science
  - Highest cut of marks for Medical Science
- One option might be to place this in the right-hand sidebar, so that the advertisements in the right sidebar don't appear all together, but instead are separated by this and other blocks.

We want to add another section:

- The title is “How much does it cost to study [degree name] in Spain?”. This will be followed by an automatically generated paragraph
- For example: There are 11 public universities and 5 private universities in Spain where you can study Medical Science. The most inexpensive option is the University of Málaga, where it costs 747 € per year. The most expensive is Nebrija University, where the cost of studying Medical Science is 23.800 € per year.
- This section should be placed after the article (where currently you have the Cut Of Marks section).

Featured degrees:

- Degree cards: See comments in Sitewide design considerations (section Degree style cards > Fields to include > Full sized)

Related degrees

- Change title to “Recommended for you”. This should be a related content section, not a related degrees section (we already have featured degrees immediately above this)

| Replace this                                                                        | With this                                                                            |

Forum section

Move this to the sidebar, simplifying the design if necessary (see comments in Lead Form section, above)..
The list of topics will be filtered to show forum topics related to this degree or, if there are none, we'll show the latest forum posts regardless of topic.
