

It's a surprisingly chilly Friday, and Governor stormstopper is speaking at historically black Texas Southern University in Houston in support of Rep. BoredNerdyGamer's bid for US Senate. He's speaking to a full auditorium with a good amount of students and professors, but the event is open to the community at large.

"Good evening!" the governor calls out.

"Good evening!" responds the crowd.

"I'm so proud to be here today. I'm proud to be at a university where professors like Dr. Tyrone Dixon are so committed that he would hold onto his student's child so that she could take notes. Dr. Dixon, please stand up."

The professor waves at the crowd and smiles a bit bashfully.

"And I'm proud to be at a university who is so committed to preparing future students for the rigors of college that it runs an extraordinarily successful Summer of Success program that recently got an investment of $100,000 from AT&T. Anybody who did SOS, let me hear you!"

Several dozen of the students in the crowd stand up and cheer.

"And I'm proud to be at a university where students, administration, and professors alike have been pioneers in the world. HBCUs carried the fight against segregation, and Texas Southern students in 1960 were the first in Houston to organize a sit-in."

"That dedication that Texas Southern has shown to moving the community forward, moving Dixie forward, moving America forward is why I wanted to speak here today."

"I wanted to talk about a good friend of mine. We served together in the Dixie Assembly, and in our time working together I've never met anyone as dedicated, as smart, and as capable of serving the people of Dixie. He's now serving in Congress, representing the best Dixie has to offer. I endorsed him when he ran for Congress and today I'm proud to endorse BoredNerdyGamer in his run for the United States Senate!"

The crowd erupts in cheers and chants of "B-N-G!"

"We need a senator who understands that health care is a right! We need someone who will give Dixie the federal support it needs to roll out the Southern Health Care Plan and ensure that everyone has the right to affordable and accessible health care! We need someone who will fight to ensure universal health care on the federal level. That someone is BoredNerdyGamer!"

"And we need a senator who understands that we can't assume that equality will happen on its own. He's written legislation barring housing discrimination toward LGBT Dixians. He's written legislation strengthening standards for autism screening. And in that, he stands in stark contrast to our incumbent senator.”

“BoredNerdyGamer is running against a senator who supports the Carey v. Dixie Inn decision.”

Before the governor can say more, the largely African-American audience erupts in boos.

“He’s running against a senator who said that demanding that public businesses treat their customers equally is ‘slavery.’”

“He’s running against a senator who believes that your response to being denied service, or having your pockets checked for no reason, or being followed around the store by a busybody employee should just be to find another store because their bigotry is more important than your right to equality.”

“That’s not the Dixie way anymore, and we need to move forward just like Texas Southern has moved our state and our country forward time and time again. That’s why I ask you to vote for BoredNerdyGamer for US Senate! Thank you, God bless you, and God bless Dixie!”
