Open Practices for PNW Librarians - Virtual Conference

May 11, 2018

Keynote - The Library is Really, Really Open

Candice Watkins and Jennifer Snoek-Brown TCC

Open as a means to What?

- Open ped as defined in 70s - Paquette and Library Bill of Rights
- Equity, but how relevant to library
- ACRL Framework - students as producers and consumers of info
- As a means to library principles,

Open work as explicitly connected w/ library principles. Street art mural as a prime example. Influences and intersects with lots of library work. Principles of community partnership, access and equity. Open as frame.

At TCC - shared support between Library and eLearning. Library is resources support, eLearning is instructional design. Stipend model, for faculty incentive, which includes OER. OER Steering Group.

As important as OER equity is pedagogy. Goal is “completion with quality and equity.” Open as a means to get there.

LOEL - grant project in WA

Starting small.

- Standing OER agenda item on librarian meetings.
- Include OER in library/ref stats.
- OER concepts in library teaching.
- Labelling course as OER.

Next steps

- OER integrated into library and campus assessment and reports.
- How courses are labelled - there are approaches that can be more or less explicit, more or less immediately understandable to students.
- Student guide on OER (in addition to faculty facing guide).

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

- Sharing Library OER Story.
- Collection Development.
- LibGuides - TCC uses for all website. Assets as a site for open practices. Video widgets with attribution statements, created w/ OpenWA attribution builder. Idea from Amy to get SpringShare to add attribution fields, I wonder what would make this best, probably should be machine actionable, in addition to human readable.
- Committing to CC licensing. Clarification with Union around the intellectual property article. Joint ownership between individual faculty and library.
- OER is deeply connected with quality design, regarding course redesigns and stipends.

Resources shared by TCC Librarians

TCC's gains, gaps, goals:
https://docs.google.com/document/d/1DVgW5REn9fXnS7iwnjA-h8MNVkkc0D-_Zle6BoViZUw/edit?usp=sharing

Here is the direct link to our OER how-to flyer for working with bookstore for how to have print version fo OER textbooks, https://docs.google.com/document/d/1dHuzcGInBTxfjzdpoIrcmWBIIt-DDKrt63lBA_7FSoo/edit?usp=sharing

And here is the direct link to the OER Steering Group's gains/gaps/goals report from last year,
https://docs.google.com/document/d/1DVgW5REn9fXnS7iwnjA-h8MNVkkc0D-_Zle6BoViZUw/edit

It's on our TCC Faculty OER libgudie at http://tacomacc.libguides.com/c.php?g=587093&p=5850791

Student OER Libguide
https://tacomacc.libguides.com/oerstudentguide

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

Lightning Talks

Open Peer Review - Emily

- Student annotated bib assignment, typically asking for multiple sources, seemingly at random
- Open Peer Review - reviewer id is not masked, chat and discourse, community can also see reviews, make guidelines of review transparent
- Ex. F1000
- Flip assignments, Peer reviewing tweets - example find tweet in advance, task tables to peer review by using web to research the person and their claim,

Adding Social Justice to the Conversation

- Fac unaware of cost concerns. Blank looks.
- Many (51%) students are not buying the book - this frequently gets better faculty interaction from this
- Textbook costs directly impact students' ability to succeed in class - two tier concept (faculty seem to respond to this)

UW Open Textbook Pilot, Phase 2

- Reubus Community facilitated
- Outreach to faculty
- Pressbooks to support the process
- Their textbook Financial Strategy for Public Managers
- And, here is our call for proposals, with a lot more info:
- http://guides.lib.uw.edu/c.php?g=417242&p=5839868
-
-

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

Supporting Upper division OERs - Oregon Tech

https://docs.google.com/presentation/d/1XJcweIcE5NOzS1G-zXEFvYNNjjgPZlPZAWvGVUs_xMI/edit?usp=sharing

- Massive costs, tons of printing
- Mini grants, upper div emphasis and unique classes, 10k, 12 awardees, 24 class texts to be changed
- Grant recipients will be paired with experienced OER mentor, will also give follow up presentations

OER: In the Library, on the Web, and in the Catalog

- Lower Columbia College, mod existing OER, about 4 yrs
- Main Issues - instructors didn't know what student texts looked like, students online have different pagination, large file size
- Google Drive Folder to house the adaptations, linked to from library homepage
- Accessibility requires slight adjustments
- LCC OER Page with link to Google Drive folders
- Primo Back Office Resource recommender - can bring up custom resources (links to texts that otherwise wouldn't show up in the catalogue)
- lowercolumbia.edu/library
-

Inviting OER to the Dinner Table

- Research project, value of cross-institutional partnerships
- OER Impact Survey, consistent language, OpenEd Group, colleges have IR, but various IRB processes
- After completion, shared with OpenEd
- OLA Quarterly upcoming Open theme call for submissions, deadline Sept. 15.

Resources
https://sites.google.com/site/pnwoer/
https://libraryguides.chemeketa.edu/affordability

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

Chat Transcript

From Michaela Willi Hooper to Everyone: 12:58 PM
Hello!
From Me to Everyone: 12:58 PM
virtual pot luck. Ha
From Friday Valentine to Everyone: 12:59 PM
thank you!
From Amy S. to Everyone: 12:59 PM
Hi Jen! :)
From Rogue CC to Everyone: 01:00 PM
Hi Everyone! This is Felishia, Carolyn, & Tina from Rogue CC. :) We don't have a camera but we'll be listening in.
hi Amy!
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 01:02 PM
Candice's computer just froze, so she is haivng to restart her computer...
yes, good point
From Me to Everyone: 01:04 PM
Anyone want to do shared notes? I'm not the best notetaker, but maybe all together we can do something worthwhile. I'm also happy to give "ownership" up to anyone who would be a better doc master.
https://docs.google.com/document/d/1GwXzEo7lhPyVyKKDrYrCwy3TJkILSBPy1hOeiR6cn-o/edit?usp=sharing
No pressure. Just trying to share
Will share after Amy. You got it.
From meredith to Everyone: 01:06 PM
We miss both of you!!!!!
From Lindsay Keevy to Everyone: 01:07 PM
ryer, this is andrea @ lcc. i will just send you mine afterwards - not up to that much thinking to share real time.
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 01:07 PM
Thanks, Meredith! Oregon + Washington = powerhouse librarian communities! <3

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

From Me to Everyone: 01:08 PM
Cool Andrea. I can merge after.
From Stephen Badalamente to Everyone: 01:15 PM
How meaningful is the stipend? When we have faculty teaching 5-6 sections to make ends meet a lot of course redevelopment is a hard sell
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 01:17 PM
Stephen, let's ask the TCC folks, but in my experience the stipend is meaningful because it shows that the course redesign time is valued Stipends though often aren't enough to equal a course buyout. Is that what you mean?
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 01:17 PM
I will touch on the stipend in a bit -- great question!
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 01:30 PM
I wonder if Springshare would add an attribution field so that you could still have keywords as a usable field…?
From Candice Watkins to Everyone: 01:30 PM
Hmmm. good point!
From Friday Valentine to Everyone: 01:30 PM
yes!
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 01:30 PM
:)
From Kim Read to Everyone: 01:31 PM
great idea Amy!
From Stephen Badalamente to Everyone: 01:37 PM
Does that mean that other faculty can make the CC license decision individually at TCC?
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 01:38 PM
I was wondering the same thing!
Thanks Candice!
Silvia Lin Hanick
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 01:38 PM
Answer to Stephen -- yes, that means facuty at TCC can inidivdually CC license their own learning objects when TCC provides funding, like through stipends, then there is joint ownership of the learning object
From Stephen Badalamente to Everyone: 01:40 PM
yes!
From Maura Valentino to Everyone: 01:40 PM
Could you clarify making a mural open?
From Candice Watkins to Everyone: 01:41 PM
We'll add the cc-by license to the mural at some point in some way, following the model in the library of openly licensing our learning objects. Make sense?
From Lindsay Keevy to Everyone: 01:43 PM

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

at LCC, we have an ad in the schedule which lists ALL the OE courses every quarter. As well as having every OE course noted in the schedule. and having a copy of the ad with the counseling dept.
(that was Andrea - I should have signed in with her name) :)
advisors, yes
From Rogue CC to Everyone: 01:43 PM
How is TCC's bookstore funded? Have they've been affected by OERs?
From Emily! to Everyone: 01:43 PM
Can you talk about the process with SpringShare, if any, to make your LibGuides CC?
From Rogue CC to Everyone: 01:47 PM
That's great! Could you share the flyer?
Thank you :)
From Emily! to Everyone: 01:47 PM
yes
From Friday Valentine to Everyone: 01:47 PM
There's a license block in libguides where I do the cc info
From Emily! to Everyone: 01:48 PM
Cool!
Sounds super easy, thanks!
From Michaela Willi Hooper to Everyone: 01:48 PM
Yes, we put it in a separate content block.
From Friday Valentine to Everyone: 01:49 PM
Yes, our "license" area is a part of our template.
From Candice Watkins to Everyone: 01:51 PM
TCC's gains, gaps, goals:
https://docs.google.com/document/d/1DVgW5REn9fXnS7iwnjA-h8MNVkkc0D-_Zle6BoViZUw/edit?usp=sharing
From Stephen Badalamente to Everyone: 01:52 PM
Washington CTCs are legally obliged to post textbook costs at registration, although we have until CTCLink to implement. At TCC are you farther along with that, aside from OER courses?
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 01:52 PM
Thanks Candice!
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 01:54 PM
Here is the direct link to our OER how-to flyer for working with bookstore for how to have print version fo OER textbooks,
https://docs.google.com/document/d/1dHuzcGInBTxfjzdpoIrcmWBIIt-DDKrt63lBA_7FSoo/edit?usp=sharing
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 01:54 PM
Thanks Jennifer!
From Stephen Badalamente to Everyone: 01:54 PM

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

Do you incorporate subscription resources into OER course materials? For instance, linking terms into Oxford Reference Online, or linking references for a chapter to articles in EBSCOhost?
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 01:55 PM
And here is the direct link to the OER Steering Group's gains/gaps/goals report from last year, https://docs.google.com/document/d/1DVgW5REn9fXnS7iwnjA-h8MNVkkc0D-_Zle6BoViZUw/edit
It's on our TCC Faculty OER libgudie at http://tacomacc.libguides.com/c.php?g=587093&p=5850791
From Maura Valentino to Everyone: 01:56 PM
Has anyone had objections from faculty regarding the possibility that faculty will just use anything to get the OER designation and not really vet the materials?
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 01:57 PM
I think there was concern about that in CA a few years back. Sounds like a pretty anti-faculty view :/
Are you hearing that?
From Maura Valentino to Everyone: 01:57 PM
Yes, from at least one faculty member
From Stephen Badalamente to Everyone: 01:57 PM
That's great thank you
From Maura Valentino to Everyone: 01:58 PM
We are on a budget model that makes it very competitive between and among departments
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 02:01 PM
I think it might be a matter of asking them to specify exactly which courses are the problem and how they don't meet quality standards…
I like what the TCC folks are saying about how oer is deeply connected with quality design! There's your evidence.
From Stephen Badalamente to Everyone: 02:02 PM
To what extent do you think you could have made so much progress without an instructional designer and dedicated OER librarian?
From Michaela Willi Hooper to Everyone: 02:02 PM
Does someone from those areas (accessibility, inst. design, librarian) vet each of the redesigned courses? Is that required, or just optional?
From Candice Watkins to Everyone: 02:02 PM
It's required to receive the full stipend
From Michaela Willi Hooper to Everyone: 02:02 PM
Thank you! Great ideas.
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:03 PM
Hi Michaela, our instructional designer leads the effort in the rubric evaluation, and pulls in our elearning team to vet the accesibility, and i help vet the oer/library resources/copyright issues
From Michaela Willi Hooper to Everyone: 02:03 PM
Thanks!

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:04 PM
I love this analogy and photo of cats and boxes and peer review!
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 02:04 PM
we are all giggling in roseburg!
From Emily! to Everyone: 02:07 PM
:) <3
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:12 PM
Thank you, Maura, for highlighting the kind of messaging about OER that does resonate with faculty :)
And Emily, I am totally going to be sharing your ideas about how to highlight open peer-review processes with our library faculty at our next meeting!
From Sue Wozniak to Everyone: 02:12 PM
Is it a business text?
From Chelle Batchelor to Everyone: 02:14 PM
Sorry all, here is our textbook!
https://press.rebus.community/financialstrategy/
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 02:14 PM
Thanks :)
data is in draft form
From Chelle Batchelor to Everyone: 02:15 PM
And, here is our call for proposals, with a lot more info:
http://guides.lib.uw.edu/c.php?g=417242&p=5839868
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:16 PM
Yay, it's wonderful to hear you were inspired to help lead OER efforts on your campus from the library! :D :D :D
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 02:17 PM
I know that is making my day too!
OIT faculty that I've met so far are super concerned about affordable textbooks.
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:22 PM
That is a GREAT idea to build in on-campus OER mentors! Oh, and building in follow-up presentations... taking these ideas to our OER steering group!!!
Woot! Go LCC!
From Sue Wozniak to Everyone: 02:23 PM
This is great - love the look of it too!
From Michaela Willi Hooper to Everyone: 02:23 PM
Yes, I love the color coding!
From Amy Hofer to Everyone: 02:26 PM
super slick!
From dawn.loDawn lowewincentsen to Everyone: 02:26 PM
Lindsay, I would love your notes or a walk through on the PBO to do that
From Candice Watkins to Everyone: 02:27 PM
That's so nice!

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:27 PM
Wow, this is amazing! What a great way to integrate OER into collection development
From Sue Wozniak to Everyone: 02:28 PM
Yes I'd love to see the technical side of how to make that happen - thanks!
From Lindsay Keevy to Everyone: 02:29 PM
Sure - you can email me at lkeevy@lowercolumbia.edu and Andrea is at agillaspy@lowercolumbia.edu
Our library page is lowercolumbia.edu/library
From Me to Everyone: 02:34 PM
Interesting that LCC has PBO access, as many of us in our group don't as we're Total Care customers. All of this will change soon though with the upcoming Primo VE, which may be even easier to make PBO type edits.
(That being the WACTC group, sorry)
From Lindsay Keevy to Everyone: 02:34 PM
That is interesting...it's been really useful to have access to, and I haven't broken anything (yet)!
From Sue Wozniak to Everyone: 02:35 PM
What is PBO access?
From Lindsay Keevy to Everyone: 02:35 PM
Primo Back Office
From Me to Everyone: 02:36 PM
Sue, I was just hanging with Greg at ELUNA and I'm pretty sure you guys are in the same boat as me = no PBO access for this kind of thing
From Sue Wozniak to Everyone: 02:36 PM
I see - thanks
From Me to Everyone: 02:37 PM
But, this doesn't mean we shouldn't figure out how to do this. It's a super idea.
From Sue Wozniak to Everyone: 02:39 PM
I would be very motivated!
From dawn.loDawn lowewincentsen to Everyone: 02:39 PM
I am up for an article to OLAq :)
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:41 PM
To what extent do you think you could have made so much progress without an instructional designer and dedicated OER librarian?
I wanted to address a question Stephen asked earlier, "To what extent do you think you could have made so much progress without an instructional designer and dedicated OER librarian?"

Interesting question. Every campus is structured differently, so it's really impossible to say. But even if your campus does NOT have a dedicated OER librarian, hopefully what we've shown is that you can integrate OER or open practices into things you're already doing -- like LibGuides, making handouts and learning objects openly licensed, collecting data on OER-related questions from faculty and students, integrating it into your teaching, etc. Libraries can be open leaders on campus and maybe inspire other departments.

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

From Lindsay Keevy to Everyone: 02:44 PM
this is Andrea @lcc. we don't have anything like an OER librarian. We have a half time adjunct who does OER when not on the reference desk, doing AskWa, or in a classroom.
and we do OK - but we also are always eager to learn more.
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:45 PM
Definitely it was visionary at TCC, from library and admin leadership, to craft this position of an OER librarian. And I'm still only half-time OER support! The other half of my job is regular instruction and reference, coll dev, etc. But point taken, we are very lucky to have such built-in support for OER @ TCC
It's a good question about PNLA!
From Michaela Willi Hooper to Everyone: 02:45 PM
Yes, I'd love to do something OER-ish at ACRL NW joint conference!
From Sue Wozniak to Everyone: 02:46 PM
I would love to see/take part in an effort to improve the repositories/discoverability of OER resources. I don't know if this is something that could be done gathering in person, or if there's a better method to keep working on this.
From Lindsay Keevy to Everyone: 02:47 PM
sounds good (says andrea)
From Emily! to Everyone: 02:49 PM
I'm wondering if it would make sense to tap into the Alliance as well?
I know. An equity issue!
TY, Kim.
From Kim Read to Everyone: 02:49 PM
YW Emily!
From Chelle Batchelor to Everyone: 02:49 PM
I've noticed that there have been a lot of regional and consortial OER conferences popping up lately, so I feel like our current models of meeting online or at ACRL NW is good. Many of us don't have a lot of funding for travel, so this seems like a good tactic.
From Candice Watkins to Everyone: 02:51 PM
that's cuz you are! :)
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:51 PM
yep #librariannerd #nerdpride
From Sue Wozniak to Everyone: 02:52 PM
OER Commons does seem to be a great place to search. The OER listserv has resource sharing almost daily and I wonder where all of that lives and can be found? There seems to be a lot of OER material out there that has not been added to collections. How can we round that up?
From Friday Valentine to Everyone: 02:53 PM
yes, a clearinghouse would be lovely!
From Chelle Batchelor to Everyone: 02:53 PM
https://sites.google.com/site/pnwoer/
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:54 PM
CRICKETS. ;)

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

brains dimming on friday afternoons -- you are all ROCK STARS for being here on a friday afternoon! :D
From Michaela Willi Hooper to Everyone: 02:54 PM
There is the LIBOER archive, but I agree that it would be nice to have that in a more organized way: https://groups.google.com/a/arl.org/forum/#!forum/sparc-liboer
From Me to Everyone: 02:54 PM
With clearning houses, hubs, etc - And move to better metadata practices to allow for better search engine indexing and use of OER. Something like schema.org may be part of the way forward.
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:55 PM
Woot, go community colleges!
From Friday Valentine to Everyone: 02:56 PM
In the spirit of sharing, here's our affordability guide (blatantly pilfered with permission from Jen K at PCC): https://libraryguides.chemeketa.edu/affordability
From Michaela Willi Hooper to Everyone: 02:56 PM
Yes, so many good conversations start informally!
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:56 PM
YES to sharig our own OER stories and how we all "go open" -- demonstrates that there's not just one model to lead OER efforts or help support OER efforts on campus
From Candice Watkins to Everyone: 02:56 PM
good point. I like getting to know the OER community
From Maura Valentino to Everyone: 02:57 PM
Is there a way to make a directory of the librarians that work with OER in the area
From Sue Wozniak to Everyone: 02:57 PM
I put it in the Google doc
From Chelle Batchelor to Everyone: 02:57 PM
https://sites.google.com/site/pnwoer/
From Kim Read to Everyone: 02:58 PM
heading out, thanks everyone! And thanks Amy for organizing!
From Stephen Badalamente to Everyone: 02:58 PM
Thanks all, I enjoyed this and hope more such opportunities for sharing will be available
From Sue Wozniak to Everyone: 02:58 PM
Thanks everyone
From Michaela Willi Hooper to Everyone: 02:58 PM
Yes, thanks, Amy!
and all the presenters!
From Lindsay Keevy to Everyone: 02:58 PM
thank you!
From dawn.loDawn lowewincentsen to Everyone: 02:58 PM
I will assuming it is fall or beyond
From buckst to Everyone: 02:58 PM
I'll help

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

From Candice Watkins to Everyone: 02:58 PM
Count me in! :)
From Sue Wozniak to Everyone: 02:58 PM
I would help with this.
From Me to Everyone: 02:58 PM
You can count me in.
From Michaela Willi Hooper to Everyone: 02:59 PM
Yes, interested in participating/helping!
From Chelle Batchelor to Everyone: 02:59 PM
Great to connect with everyone. Thanks for hosting, Amy!
From Jennifer Snoek-Brown to Everyone: 02:59 PM
Thank you!!!

This work by Open Oregon is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.