This Crazy Little Thing Called ~~Love~~ Glamping

Why winter might just be the most romantic time to escape

There's something deliciously rebellious about packing a weekend bag when everyone else is hibernating.

While most people are wrapped in blankets watching re-runs of Love Island in their heated living rooms, you're off somewhere better — stars above, fairy lights flickering, heater humming, and a hot drink in hand.

And the best part is, you can bring a micro projector, piles of blankets and tether your phone for an under canvas cinema. Imagine watching Celebrity Traitors in the middle of a field under the stars - would you be brave enough?

That's our crazy little thing called glamping — swapping the ordinary for something magical.

Winter is a mindset

Adventure doesn't stop with the weather. The only mud you can deal with might be a face mask, and that works for us. At Hill Farm, winter doesn't mean mud, shivering and camping grime. No. We are all about high-quality, high finish, good time glamping.

Winter means our thermal-lined bell tents and insulated pods come with heaters that keep things toasty enough to ditch the fluffy socks (if you dare).

Admittedly, BBQs are outside for the brave ones — and yes, we've seen couples having the time of their lives, cooking burgers in sub zero temperatures, before jumping in a steamy hot tub

Sipping a piping hot mug of hot chocolate (or stronger — we don't judge) beneath the fairy lights and suddenly you're living your own romantic countryside love story.

The secret to why winter glamping romance works

When it's cold out, everything slows down. Why else does winter feel so long, I have a point, right?

There's less to distract you, so you talk more. You laugh louder. You curl up closer. There's no rush to go anywhere — just the sound of the wind in the trees and the twinkle of fairy lights peaking through hot tub steam.

Forget grand gestures — sometimes romance is as simple as watching your breath in the air, then ducking back under the covers to warm up together.

Your next escape is written in the stars...

Winter was made for stargazing. The nights are cold, the air crisp and clear — perfect conditions for stars that sparkle brighter and linger longer. Grab a blanket, a hot drink, and look for the star constellation, Andromeda. The best seat for the show is right outside your glamping pod or bell tent at Hill Farm.

Hill Farm: The Facilities

Tara runs the day-to-day at Hill Farm Caravan and Camping. When you make a booking, you will find Tara at the end of the phone.

Ollie Cotton and his family have owned and run Hill Farm Caravan, Glamping and Camping for generations and love nothing more than to provide high quality and affordable escapes for outdoor enthusiasts, adventurous families, gig-lovers, multi-people rallies & get-to-gathers.

Here's what you've been crying out for- NEW changes for 2025 🌟

💡 All our lights around the pods and gazebos are currently solar and don't work 24/7 in winter. We know this has been a let-down for some guests. We are going electric with lights — everything will be lit up all the time this winter.

😄 All pods have mains electric (not solar), we have 4 bell tents left to do.

🏠 We've added 2 more standard lotus belle tents to our site this year!

🍷 SAY HELLO to a street food truck this year. All details are here

😬 OUR LIPS ARE SEALED RIGHT NOW, BUT WE HAVE ONE MORE GLAMPING ADDITION BREWING...

Subject: That “let’s escape” feeling... it’s calling again 🌟

I’m starting to realise that winter slowing down time is a joy. At Hill Farm we slip into a gentler rhythm and appreciate the cooler temperatures, as we sweep leaves from the belles and stack seasoned firewood.

Winter glamping is so underrated, the peace, twinkling stars, clear air - it’s so romantic (think of hallmark films, most are set in winter, all I’m sayin’ is there’s a reason).

Too often we lull into a trance of same days, same routine, same TV series. We almost wait for winter to pass us by - without grabbing the moment.

Before you know it, seasonal affective disorder and the winter blues creep in.

No!

You have just as much right to glamp, adventure, laugh and be a little wild in winter.

Chilly, I think not. Get outside, layer those woollen knits.

You know you are craving something different — but a Jet2 holiday isn’t on the cards 😜

Swap the airport queues for fairy lights and fresh air.

Get glamping on your to-do list and feel that buzz of packing bags just because “we need this.”

It's spontaneous, it's fun and it comes with heating, fairy lights and our full permission to get outside, breathe in cold air and feel the prick of frost on your nose and ear tips, before diving into a bubbling hot tub or snuggling in your thermal lined bell tent.

Our thermal-lined bell tents and heated pods are open all winter (except Christmas)

So when you want a night to reboot again... opt romantic, quiet, and gorgeously low-key — you know where to go.

Did we mention your next escape's already written in the stars? 🤖

Stay romantic

Tara x

EMAIL FOOTER

Don't feel you need to read this. Setting up our account, we had a tough time getting into the primary tab on your inbox. And let's face it: If our emails are not getting into your primary box, are you even reading them?

No, probably not. They are just joining the ranks of the discarded local trading post and unwanted utility statements piling up on the virtual hallway side console of your mailing inbox.

We have put a lot of time, energy, and thought into what we are saying here, and we are not writing for our own echo chamber - although it's always nice to hear the sound of one's own voice...That is not the point of these emails. These are meant for you and meant to be enjoyed with a large cup of tea or other ice-cold beverage of choice, sitting in a fold-out deck chair under the sunshine.

Camping is our vibe, favourite pastime and literally the best thing in the world.

About us:

Ollie's family have run Hill Farm since way back. It's a generational campsite, full of good people, mostly regulars.

We also welcome generational campers who frequent Hill Farm as a tradition or habitual need. We are all, after all, creatures of habit. I (Tara) manage the site and bookings here at Hill Farm. Before working full time for Ollie managing the campsite, I lived here. That is right, my parents, my daughter, and I live on the campsite in our vans, and we love it.

My favourite food is chilli; if I could have a holiday anywhere in the world, it would have to be Spain by the sea. Which is where I escape to after the busy Hill Farm summer season.

Camping is a lifestyle we love, and unlike most sites, where the managers and owners live miles away or in farmhouses, we do things differently around here and live on the site alongside you. So you know when you stay, you are visiting our home. And that means you will have a high-quality home-from-home experience. We started our glamping adventures a few years ago. Ollie wanted to open the doors to glamping and create affordable glamping with hot tubs. In classic Hill Farm style, they are top quality and beautiful (with continuous upgrades).

Privacy:

At Hill Farm Caravan and Camping we take your privacy seriously. We won't misuse or abuse your private information. It only ever remains with us and our internal service providers. You can read our policy on our website to find out exactly how we collect, use and disclose information.

As always, you can unsubscribe at any time from our marketing and news emails.

We will always do our best to accommodate your requests, including those related to your personal information as soon as possible. We welcome your questions and any feedback.

If you've managed to get this far, you now know a lot about Hill Farm. And hey, maybe that makes you a super fan...reply to this email and say, "Hey Tara, I read your teeny-tiny small-print chatty and slightly crazy stream of thoughts right to the end - that makes me a super fan, and yes, we love Hill Farm too". Do that, and you will make my day - sometimes my days consist of cleaning toilets, beating mattresses, waterproofing canvas and lugging large amounts of firewood around the campsite...So yes, nice emails with a cup of tea really do make my day. Keeping it honest  Tara
