

Who to Follow on Twitter

The best place to find people to follow on twitter is through # (hashtags) that are meaningful to you. For me as a grade one teacher I found many of the original people I started to follow through #1stchat. From there I checked out who those people were following and over time my "following" list grew exponentially. As you start to follow people, people often start to follow you. But if you would like to add to your following list here are a few twitter names to get you started. This list is far from complete and is missing so many amazing educators.
