

Vol. 0 No. 0 (Oktober 2024) hlm. 00 – 00

Basilius Eirene: Jurnal Agama dan Pendidikan

<https://e-journal.basileajutyn.com/index.php/jb>

Title: The title can be in Indonesian or English. The title should be concise and straightforward, and describe the content of the article. Written with the “Times New Roman” model, a maximum of 16 words, and no subtitles. If more than one line is written in 1 space.

Name: Full name (without a degree), Affiliation (Agency where the author works/studies), Correspondence (e-mail address).

Masuk xxx xxx xxx	Diterima xxx xxx xxx	Terbit xxx xxx xxx
-------------------	----------------------	--------------------

DOI Crossref: <https://doi.org/10.63436/bejap.vXXX.XX>

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International License.

Abstract

An abstract consists of a short description of the research's problems and goals, the method used, and the research results. Abstracts are to be written with a maximum of 250 words and must be clear and descriptive. Abstracts must be written in both the Indonesian and English languages. The format of the abstract is to be typed using the Times New Roman font, 12 font size, and spacing of 1,15. Keywords must be written to describe the scope of the problem that is being researched, along with important terms from the research. Keywords can take the form of singular words or compound words.

Keywords: Format, Journal, Research.

Introduction

Written with Times New Roman, Font size 12, spaced 1.15. The article was written using A4 paper. Format the left margin 2,54 cm, top 2,54 cm, right 2,54 cm, and bottom 2,54 cm. This paper describes the problems that occur and can be scientifically proven or can be investigated by methodological, hermeneutic, and exegesis approaches. In this introduction, a thesis will be explained, which will be described or examined to answer issues, and issues are surrounding theology, Christian, and pastoral education, which can be interpreted in an argumentative and quantitative, qualitative, and other measurable data analysis.

Name

Method

The method of study/research to measure it (if it is analytical) and if it is argumentative, must be supported by an expert view or a primary source to support the author's argument. The method must be systematic, valid, and have appropriate references.

Result and Discussion

The contents section explains the purpose for which the article was written. Each section title must be written in bold, and sub-sections must be in italics and bold. Articles for journals are the results of research, critical analysis, and studies in the fields of theology, Christian Religious Education, scriptural expositions, and pastoral studies in churches, Christian schools, and Christian Colleges. This section can add tables, drawings, or statistical calculations to explain the results of research or research study arguments.

Conclusion

Closing or conclusions are the results of the research and the author's argumentation to answer the problem, which is the author's goal.

References

Books and journals are required in the last five years at least five references.

Cited and Bodynote

The citation is more than four lines typed with a single space, and it is given a new line with a font size of 11. Citations consisting of four lines or less than four lines are written as the continuation of the previous sentence using quotation marks.

The footnotes use the American Psychological Association 7th Edition (APA) standard. Examples of references are as follows.