

Season 9 - Episode 205: If you have offensive users in your group, we can't help you
Intro

Brought to you by TogetherLetters!

In this episode:

- Twitter seeking input as it explores Filter and Limit controls on tweets
- Privacy experts aren't thrilled by Amazon's rolling surveillance robot
- Amazon takes on Nest with a \$59.99 smart thermostat
- AI cannot be the inventor of a patent, appeals court rules
- Yahoo has built a new calendar app called Day, with the co-founder of Sunrise consulting on the design
- FBI probing Ozy Media after co-founder allegedly impersonated YouTube exec
- All Hail Mr. Gox, the Crypto Trading Hamster Who's Killing It
- A Bitcoin miner is buying power plants to mine crypto now
- Flying Microchips The Size Of A Sand Grain Could Be Used For Population Surveillance

AD BREAK

- China's central bank says all cryptocurrency-related activities are illegal, vows harsh crackdown
- Google CEO sought to keep Incognito mode issues out of spotlight, lawsuit alleges
- Break your iPhone 13 screen? Face ID won't work if it's not replaced by Apple.
- Facebook pauses Instagram Kids because it was actually a bad idea

Weird and Wacky:

- Samsung recruits Vanilla Ice to fight climate change
- For \$84,000, An Artist Returned Two Blank Canvasses Titled 'Take The Money And Run'
- Check out what drones can do!
- Ready to boldly go? William Shatner, 90, 'is going into SPACE with Jeff Bezos' Blue Origin': Legendary Star Trek actor would become the oldest person EVER in space

Tech Rec:

- Sanjay - Exodus Privacy
- Adam - Daylio App