

Social Network Revolution

The first social network site was Geocities in 1994. AOL was started in 1997, LinkedIn in 2003, Facebook in 2004, YouTube in 2005, Twitter in 2006, Instagram in 2010, Pinterest in 2010, and Snapchat in 2012. The first modern social networking site was Friendster then MySpace which allowed users to take videos, photos, and music. These sites are important because they are used to display job experience, connect US college students, watch videos, send tweets, take pictures and videos, photo sharing, and image messaging. These social medias are a easy way to connect with friends and family, get to know people, and some are good for job searching. Social Network Revolution impacted society because these sites have changed the way we interact with each other and social networking has become really mobile from our PCs to our smartphones. Facebook now has over 150 million members around the globe and Instagram has 77.6 million users and is projected to rise.
