1.1 Synopsises

Good Girl — Aria Aber
A young Afghan-German woman moves through Berlin's underground scene, recounting nights of art, music, and fleeting relationships while reflecting on her past and present.

Slewfoot — Gerald Brom
In 1600s New England, a widowed woman is cast out by her strict community and forms an unusual alliance with a mysterious forest spirit, leading to a growing conflict with the town.

Piglet — Lottie Hazell
A woman preparing for her wedding spirals after a shocking revelation about her fiancé, becoming increasingly consumed by food, routine, and control as the big day approaches.

People with No Charisma — Jente Posthuma
A woman looks back on her life with her twin brother after his death, piecing together memories of their childhood, adulthood, and the bond they shared.

The Third Boy — Hélène Cixous
A fragmented, dreamlike narrative centered on a “third boy,” blending memory, imagination, and shifting identities as it moves between scenes and voices.

Animal Triste — Monika Maron
An older woman recounts an intense love affair with a man she met in Berlin, revisiting the relationship and its aftermath from a distance in time.

Girls Against God — Jenny Hval
A young woman in Norway becomes involved in black metal culture and filmmaking, creating increasingly extreme artistic projects while narrating her own story.

The Meat and Spirit Plan — Selah Saterstrom
A young woman in the American South recounts her upbringing, relationships, and personal experiences in a nonlinear, intimate narrative that shifts across time.
