AISJ CHILD PROTECTION OPERATIONS MANUAL

Introduction

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia has taken a firm stance on the right of each child to live in a safe environment. The family friendly atmosphere of Jeddah is a clear sign of the value that the society puts on children. Beyond the significant cultural belief in the right to protect the innocent, the Kingdom has joined nearly every nation on earth in a stand against child endangerment. By signing the United Nations Convention on the Rights of a Child in 1996¹, the government dedicated itself to preserving the rights of children, and protecting them from abuse and exploitation. We at AISJ are aligned with these respected values and will do our part to create and maintain a safe environment for all of the students within our care.

AISJ Safeguarding and Child Protection Statement

Safeguarding and Child Protection is a priority for every adult, parent, and student within the AISJ community.

- AISJ will educate and inform all stakeholders in their right to be safe and in how they might foster that respect within the community.
- AISJ will utilize safe and compliant recruitment and hiring methods consistent with child protection policies.
- AISJ will audit, train, review, and maintain safe practices in regard to personal responsibility and reporting structure with all employees on a regular basis.
- AISJ will uphold investigative and reporting practices when issues of child protection are raised.

Chapter 1

Background Information for Child Safeguarding and Protection Procedures

Definitions of Abuse and Neglect

Definitions of abuse are complex and based in various cultures, child-rearing behaviors, and gender role expectations. The primary determination of abuse is that it is dependent on some form of a relationship that is used to meet the need of the more powerful person, either a member of the family, a teacher, or a friend. At other times abuse may occur from an adult that is a stranger or acquaintance to a child. Research guides the definitions, and the understanding of the impact of certain behaviors. If the child does not have a relationship with the individual (i.e. a stranger), then terminology such as rape (sexual) or assault (physical) might be used.

Important Notes:

- Behavioral indicators in and of themselves do not constitute abuse or neglect; the presence of indicators does not necessarily mean that abuse or neglect is present.
 - The behavioral indicators could be rooted in other issues, or may represent normal developmental phases experienced by a child.
 - Troubling student behavior should be addressed in a constructive way, regardless of the cause.
 - Use common sense and consider other indicators, such as culture and family dynamics, when deciding if a referral is warranted.
 - If in doubt, ask for help from the school Counselor or Director.
- Possible indicators of abuse or neglect may be the same across multiple types of abuse.
- Indicators may be entirely absent in a child who is a victim of abuse.
- The most powerful evidence of abuse is self-reporting. If a child reports abuse, a referral must be made, whether indicators are present or not.

Physical Abuse

Physical abuse is defined as a parent or caregiver deliberately inflicting pain or injuries to the child, or allowing another person to inflict pain or injuries to the child.

Possible indicators of physical abuse include:

- Bruises, bruises of various colors, burns, sprains, dislocations, bites, cuts.
- Improbable excuses given to explain injuries.
- Injuries which have not received medical attention.
- Injuries that occur to the body in places that are not normally exposed to falls, rough games, etc.
- Injuries that suggest inappropriate striking or harming: rope burns, cigarette burns, belt marks, item shaped bruises.
- Has injuries that repeatedly occur during weekends or absences.
- Repeated urinary infections or unexplained stomach pains.
- Refusal to discuss injuries.
- Withdrawal from physical contact.
- Self-destructive tendencies, including cutting or suicidal ideation.
- Arms and legs kept covered in hot weather.
- Fear of returning home or of parents being contacted.
- Showing wariness or distrust of adults.
- Being aggressive toward others.
- Being very passive and compliant.
- Chronic running away.
- Increase in stomachaches.
- Changes in daily life patterns (eating, sleeping, bedwetting).
- Sudden change in behavior (strong anxiety, depression, withdrawal, and anger).
- Complaints of being sore and looks uncomfortable when moving.
- Seems concerned about having contact with adults.

Neglect

Neglect is defined as a parent or caregiver intentionally denying a child access to things that support healthy development, including adequate food, clothing, shelter, sleep, supervision, emotional support, medical treatment, and education.

Possible Indicators of Neglect include:

- Basic needs not met.
 - Inadequate supervision, nutrition, hygiene (matted hair, body odor), or clothing (unwashed).
 - Medical needs unattended.
- Fatigue or listlessness.

- Is often left alone.
- Extreme loneliness.
- Hunger (or too thin).
- Self-destructive tendencies, including cutting or suicidal ideation.
- Reluctance to go home.
- Low self-esteem.
- Poor social relationships.
- Frequently seeks affection.
- Compulsive stealing.
- Alcohol or drug abuse.
- Frequent lateness or low attendance.
- Child is left for extended periods of time without parents or a guardian.
- Parents cannot be reached in the case of emergency.

Emotional Abuse

Emotional abuse is defined as a parent or caregiver persistently mistreating a child emotionally, often causing severe and adverse effects on a child's emotional well-being or development. Some level of emotional abuse is involved in all types of ill treatment of a child, but it may also occur alone. It includes:

- Conveying to children that they are worthless or unloved. Verbal humiliation.
- Conveying to children that they are inadequate or valued only insofar as they meet the needs of another person.
- Imposing inappropriate age or developmental expectations on children.
- Exposing children to domestic violence.
- Causing children frequently to feel frightened.
- Exploiting or corrupting children.

Possible indicators of emotional abuse include:

- Delayed physical, mental, or emotional development.
- High anxiety.
- Delayed speech or sudden appearance of a speech disorder.
- Fear of new situations.
- Low self-esteem.
- Inappropriate emotional responses to painful situations.
- Extremes of passivity or aggression.
- Alcohol or drug abuse.
- Chronic running away.

- Compulsive stealing.
- Obsessions or phobias.
- Sudden under-achievement or lack of concentration.
- Attention-seeking behavior.
- Persistent tiredness.
- Lying.

Sexual Abuse

Sexual abuse is committing, or allowing others to commit, any sexual offense against a child, regardless of whether the child is aware of what is happening. Sexual abuse has some unique characteristics that warrant special attention. While physical abuse may be the unplanned result of immediate stress, sexual abuse requires planning with results that are more insidious. The planning, referred to as “grooming,” often results in victims accepting the blame, responsibility, guilt, and shame for the sexual behavior of the offender.

Sexual abuse requires more secrecy than other forms of child abuse, so is more difficult to report. Some victims, through the process of grooming, are taught that sexual activity is a form of love, so may be protective of their abusers because of their perception of being loved. Any disclosure of sexual abuse must be taken seriously, regardless of the signs that are present or absent. The offender must be removed from the school setting as quickly as possible while the investigation is underway. School counselors can’t work to treat sexual offenders; out-sourced professional assistance should be consulted as necessary.

Sexual abuse may include:

- Intentionally touching, either directly or through clothing, the genitals, anus, or chest area/breasts of a child for other than hygiene or child care purposes.
- Engaging in sexualized non-contact activities, such as involving children in the production or viewing of pornographic material or encouraging children to behave in sexually inappropriate ways.
- Involving children in commercial sex work. These children are victims of sexual abuse, whether they perceive themselves as victims or not.

Possible Indicators of Sexual Abuse:

- Age-inappropriate sexual knowledge, language, or provocative behavior.
- Withdrawn or aggressive behavior.
- Unusual interpersonal relationship patterns.

- Mention of special treatment from an adult, or a new “secret” friendship with an adult or younger person.
- Venereal disease, unusual vaginal or penile discharge, or difficulty urinating.
- Physical trauma or bleeding to the oral, genital, or anal areas.
- Difficulty in walking or sitting.
- Regressive behavior, like bedwetting or stranger anxiety.
- Refusal to change into PE clothes.
- Fear of people or places.
- Running away from home without a specific complaint.
- Pregnancy, especially at a young age.
- Unusually protective parents.

Possible signs of sexual offenders:

In addition to knowing the signs of victimization, below are some early warning signs to look out for in potential sexual offenders.

Signs of student offenders:

- Unusual interest in sex, sexualizing inanimate objects and activities.
- Continuation of sexual misbehavior when told to stop.
- Use of force and coercion in social situations.
- Unusual intensity when discussing sex and sexuality.
- Socialization with much younger children.
- Gifts.
- Requiring secrecy in relationships.

Signs of adult offenders:

- Identification of “favorite” student or child.
- Attempts to find ways to be alone with children.
- Inappropriate language, jokes and discussions about students/children.
- Sexualized talk in the presence of students/children.
- Private gifts or private chats, in person or online.
- Ignores physical boundaries
- Inappropriate touching (i.e. tickling games)

Child Exploitation

(The following is taken entirely from Save the Children’s Resource Center, <https://resourcecentre.savethechildren.net/keyword/commercial-exploitation>)

Child exploitation refers to the use of children for someone else's advantage, gratification or profit often resulting in unjust, cruel and harmful treatment of the child. These activities are to the detriment of the child's physical or mental health, education, moral or social-emotional development. It covers situations of manipulation, misuse, abuse, victimization, oppression or ill-treatment.

There are two main forms of child exploitation that are recognized:

- Sexual exploitation: the abuse of a position of vulnerability, differential power, or trust for sexual purposes; this includes profiting monetarily, socially or politically from the exploitation of another as well as personal sexual gratification.

Examples: Child prostitution, trafficking of children for sexual abuse and exploitation, child pornography, sexual slavery.

- Economic exploitation of a child: the use of the child in work or other activities for the benefit of others. This includes, but is not limited to, child labor. Economic exploitation implies the idea of a certain gain or profit through the production, distribution and consumption of goods and services. This material interest has an impact on the economy of a certain unit, be it the State, the community or the family.

Examples: Child domestic work, child soldiers and the recruitment and involvement of children in armed conflict, child bondage, the use of children from criminal activities including the sale and distribution of narcotics, the involvement of children in any harmful or hazardous work.

Bullying

The following definition of bullying was taken directly from

<https://www.stopbullying.gov/what-is-bullying/definition/index.html>:

Bullying is unwanted, aggressive behavior among school-aged children that involves a real or perceived power imbalance. The behavior is repeated, or has the potential to be repeated, over time. Both children who are bullied and who bully others may have serious, lasting problems. Bullying includes actions such as making threats, spreading rumors, attacking someone physically or verbally, and excluding someone from a group on purpose. In order to be considered bullying, the behavior must be aggressive and include:

- An Imbalance of Power: Children who bully use their power—such as physical strength, access to embarrassing information, or popularity—to control or harm others. Power imbalances can change over time and in different situations, even if they involve the same people.
- Repetition: Bullying behaviors happen more than once or have the potential to happen more than once.

There are three types of bullying. Verbal and social bullying may be carried out in person, on paper, or through cyber-bullying (via phone, text, video, online, or other electronic means).

- Verbal bullying is saying or writing mean things. Verbal bullying includes:
 - Teasing.
 - Name-calling.
 - Inappropriate sexual comments.
 - Taunting.
 - Threatening to cause harm.
- Social bullying, sometimes referred to as relational bullying, involves hurting someone's reputation or relationships. Social bullying includes:
 - Excluding someone on purpose.
 - Telling other children not to be friends with someone.
 - Spreading rumors about someone.
 - Embarrassing someone in public.
- Physical bullying involves harming or threatening a person's body or possessions. Physical bullying includes:
 - Hitting/kicking/pinching.
 - Spitting.
 - Tripping/pushing.
 - Taking or breaking someone's things.
 - Making mean or rude hand gestures or any gestures that might induce fear or harm.

At AISJ, all reports of Peer-on-Peer abuse are taken seriously. Reports of incidents should be reported to the school counselor immediately so that proper intervention might take place.

Child Protection in Saudi Arabia

Although the complex government social services seen in some countries around the world are still being developed within KSA, the country has made great strides in providing support for those that might be abused. As stated earlier, KSA is a firm believer in child protection and makes every effort to defend the children against exploitation and neglect. Below are resources that are in important touchstones in understanding the legal stance of the country:

- a. Saudi Arabian Law on the protection of children
- b. Social services and reporting within KSA
- c. Hotline number to report abuse against children and women: 1919

Context of the School Community

One of the essential roles and characteristics of the international school is that the school becomes the conduit for the social life in which expatriate families engage. Thus, international schools have a responsibility to literally fill the child safeguarding and protection gap in helping to connect these families to the necessary services. When the family reports that this is a safe and nurturing environment, the school can rest assured that it has fulfilled a critical service.

To clarify our task and its context within the community, it is important for school personnel to understand and be cognizant of the experience of the students we serve. Following are some of the characteristics and attributes of international school communities that should be taken in account when considering the context of our child safeguarding and protection guidelines.

Characteristics and attributes of international school children:

- Transience and mobility impact development of identity and relationships, especially for support in times of need.
- Children may demonstrate early maturity and sophistication in some areas, but naivety and immaturity in other areas.
- Separation from extended families, working and traveling parents, and interrupted long-term friendships and relationships may contribute to attachment issues, and support during times of crisis or need may be minimal or non-existent.
- Being lost between multiple and sometimes conflicting cultures and value systems results in confusion of behavioral expectations.
- High expectations are placed on students to achieve academically.
- Children might have access to paid help in the home.
- Children may attend private international schools abroad and public schools in their home countries.

Characteristics of international school families:

- Isolation from extended family, previous community creates a lack of support.
- Power differential in marriage (who has the work permit) creates vulnerability.

- Absentee parents impact family functioning.
- Expatriates may have a challenging or superficial relationship with the host country.
- Expatriates may experience a lack of control over critical life decisions; the employer may decide where, when, and how the family moves, creating a lack of stability.

Characteristics of international school communities:

- School takes on the sole role as center of family life and often provides superficial relationships that cannot meet mental health needs.
- Power influence: A family's political position in the community can inhibit a school from taking action.
- Sense of being lost in the diversity of a community can cause further isolation.

Cultural dynamics of international school communities:

- Multiple norms rooted in different cultural traditions can cause confusion involving religious values, values of parenting, discipline, care-giving, sexuality, gender roles and responsibilities.
- Impact of rapidly changing "pop culture" from developed nations affects student behavior.
- Varying degrees of openness rooted in cultural traditions affects students' relationships with their families and peers.
- Varying cultural attitudes toward gender issues and child development, including different concepts of developmental needs through childhood, affect the families' views of different situations.

International school communities are vulnerable to abuse because abusers capitalize on secrecy, insularity, isolation, and limited access to support resources. International schools must respond to the reality that these characteristics are exactly the characteristics that perpetrators will use to their advantage in abusing children.

Myths and Facts about Child Abuse and Neglect

Myth: Child abuse is carried out by strangers.

Fact: Research indicates that 90% of abuse is domestic and committed by individuals known to the child. International school communities tend to have families that move often and are separated from their extended families. When abuse is within the family, the transient lifestyle increases the risk to international school students who tend not to have access to outside resources and therefore can't get help.

Myth: Abuse is a matter of culture; physical or sexual abuse falls within the norms of some cultures and is acceptable.

Fact: The reality is that there is no excuse for child abuse. No culture supports harming children.

Myth: Child abuse is a result of poverty and happens in low socioeconomic circumstances.

Fact: Research indicates that child abuse occurs in all racial, ethnic, socioeconomic, and cultural sectors of society. A common characteristic of an abusive family is isolation, such as that commonly found in international families who move often and are separated from their extended families.

Myth: International schools do not have to report abuse to local authorities.

Fact: International schools are bound by the laws of their host countries and must be knowledgeable and compliant with the child protection laws of their location. Furthermore, international schools are legally and ethically liable for any violation of existing laws related to reporting of cases of abuse or neglect; there are cases now pending in which schools are facing legal action regarding non-compliance.

AISJ Policies

AISJ Policies Related to Child Safeguarding and Protection

The following components of AISJ policies are in place to support child safeguarding and protection, as well as the well-being, health, and safety of students, families, and staff.

List all policies put in place to protect and promote child protection

Profile of an AISJ Graduate

AISJ Strategic Plan

Strategic Delimiter #5:

We will not compromise our learners' safety.

Core Values

Among the core values of AISJ is the statement: We believe that honesty and integrity build a culture of transparency and trust. As a community, AISJ is dedicated to creating a community that provides transparent operations so that we might build trust. Teachers and other professionals hired by the school create this sort of environment within their classrooms so that secretive behavior that could victimize others is eliminated.

Character education

Elementary School Safety:

Keeping our students safe is our number one priority! All AISJ staff will be assigned supervision duty throughout the school year. Staff are trained and are expected to follow the AISJ supervision handbook. In addition, there is a clear safety protocol when it comes to allergies, fire drill, lockdown, etc.

Elementary School Social-Emotional Curriculum:

The Elementary School aims to teach, practice, model, and reinforce our Falcon Way Expectations 5B's (Being Safe, Being Caring, Being Respectful, Being Responsible, & Being Persistent). In addition, our social emotional curriculum aligns with our 5B's as it equips students with important skills such as empathy, emotion management, and problem solving. Students also learn strategies to help recognize and prevent bullying (both in their school and community). Check this link for more information.

Curricular components

High School Health Class Targeted Knowledge Statement: Our health curriculum focuses on adolescent decision-making. Our students' emotional, intellectual, physical, and social health is prioritized.

High School PE Curriculum: Adolescence and Adulthood Unit.

Skills targeted:

- I can comprehend concepts related to health promotion and disease prevention to enhance health.
- I can use interpersonal communication skills to enhance health and avoid or reduce health risks. I can demonstrate the ability to use goal-setting skills to enhance health.
- I can practice health-enhancing behaviors and avoid or reduce health risks.

Enduring Understanding:

- Individuals need to express his/her sexuality in ways that are both healthy and responsible.
- Understanding puberty helps to facilitate the emotional transition from childhood to adolescence.

Code of Conduct

AISJ teachers, staff, and volunteers will sign a code of conduct that outlines their understanding and agreement with policies regarding child safety.

Hiring Practices

AISJ incorporates safe hiring practices when considering bringing new adults into the school. This includes calling references and thorough background checks with verified, national ID.

Chapter 3

Prevention

Child Protection Team Roles and Responsibilities

The school's Child Safeguarding and Protection Plan includes the operation of the Child Protection Team. This team will plan and implement protocols, monitor interventions, and carry out follow-up activities.

The Child Protection Team consists of:

- Superintendent
- Division Heads
- School Counselor
- Teacher Representatives
- US Embassy Representative

The role of a school-based Child Protection Team is to ensure that there is a comprehensive Child Safeguarding and Protection program in place at the school and to annually monitor the effectiveness of the program. Specific tasks include:

- Develop and monitor the guidelines and protocol from the Child Safeguarding and Protection Handbook.
- Annually research local laws related to child safeguarding and protection.
- Create and maintain a directory of local resources related to child safeguarding and protection.
- Implement an introduction to child protection to the community and newcomers in the onboarding process.
- Personalize and make a plan for distributing and collecting signed copies of the Code of Conduct.
- Ensure that school-based hiring practices are aligned with those outlined in the "Recruiting and Hiring" section of this handbook.
- Organize child safeguarding and protection training for all staff and community members.
- Create a plan for documenting, storing, and sharing any disclosures of abuse.

- Create guidelines for field trips, events, off-campus events, and student travel that are aligned with the Code of Conduct.
- Ensure the implementation of child safeguarding and protection curriculum in all homerooms.
- Respond to any reports of abuse.
- Appoint a spokesperson to communicate with members of the school community in the case that an allegation is made.
- Create a plan for updating this handbook annually.

The Child Protection Team will meet at least three times annually. A general schedule of activities is below.

Timeline	Activity	Responsibility
August	Inform Board of Directors, staff, students, and parents about the school Child Safeguarding and Protection Handbook and associated protocols.	Superintendent
	Inform new families of school Child Safeguarding and Protection Handbook and associated protocols. • Update, translate as necessary, and share the Introductory Letter to School Community in this handbook. • Make a plan for distributing the letter and communicating policies to new families throughout the year.	Superintendent and Registrar
	Convene Child Protection Team, appoint chair, orient new members.	Superintendent
	Review data from the previous school year, revise and update the Child Safeguarding and Protection Handbook accordingly, and develop implementation plans for current year.	Child Protection Team

October	Complete trainings for parents and staff, if necessary.	Superintendent
November	Convene Child Protection Team to review implementation and progress of plans.	Superintendent
	Review local hiring practices to ensure: • Background screening. • Criminal history check. • Reference check includes discussion of child protection history. • Code of Conduct signed upon hiring.	Superintendent
January	Inform new families of Child Safeguarding and Protection Handbook and associated protocols	Admissions Office/Onboarding Protocols
	Convene Child Protection Team to update and review activities of first term and recommend areas of further action.	Superintendent
As needed	Convene Child Protection Team.	Superintendent
	Revise and Update Child Safeguarding and Protection Handbook as necessary, at least annually.	Superintendent

Recruiting and Hiring

AISJ strives for certainty in hiring people who are well-suited to work with children. The following recruiting and hiring protocols are in place to ensure:

- Candidates with a tendency toward child abuse are deterred from applying to AISJ.
- Candidates who have a criminal record, or about whom concerns have been raised regarding their suitability to work with children, are not offered a position.
- Successful candidates fully understand their responsibilities in safeguarding children while employed by AISJ.
- AISJ maintains appropriate records that might be required in a possible future investigation or inquiry.
 - o AISJ works with recruitment agencies such as ISS and Search to ensure that the reference checks and background screening undertaken by such agencies complements our own recruitment protocols.

- o Government-issued background check certifications will be performed for all staff employed at AISJ. Staff that are unwilling or unable to provide this check after a reasonable amount of time will be dismissed.

Employment Records

The following records will be maintained for each employee:

- An official application including statements on child protection.
- Government-issued background check certifications.
- Copies of educational certifications, university degrees, and other teacher certification documents.
- Signed Code of Conduct, renewed each year.
- Record of child safeguarding and protection training.

Recruitment and Hiring Process

- AISJ will follow appropriate procedures in hiring practices, keeping all hiring notes and background check notes. Personal calls will be made to schools and references to inquire about child safety issues at previous employment.
- AISJ will collect and maintain all child protection documentation in a secure location, ensuring confidentiality.

Application:

- AISJ candidates are required to complete a check-box indicating that the information in the application is accurate and true, and that AISJ can contact references and any previous employing school or organization for a reference.
- AISJ candidates respond “yes” or “no” to questions about their personal conduct regarding:
 - o Having an education license revoked.
 - o Having been convicted of a felony or misdemeanor.
 - o Having been discharged from a previous position.
 - o Having been denied professional credentials.

Screening:

- Satisfactory confidential reference forms from at least two previous employers or teachers including the most recent supervisor, and a mandatory phone, video call, or other personal contact reference from the most recent supervisor.
- Public records screening.
- Government-issued background check certificate from candidate’s passport country.
- An internet search including the teachers full name(s), plus the search terms: teacher; child protection; and safeguarding.

Interview:

- An AISJ administrator personally interviews each candidate.
- The recruiter will inform potential employees of our child protection policy and requirements for employment.
- The recruiter will notify potential employees that previous schools and references will be asked about the candidate’s history with child protection issues, including any disciplinary measures.

Contract:

- Employees will be required to:

- o Sign the Code of Conduct with each contract renewal.
- o Undergo child safeguarding and protection training as part of their orientation, and any time the training is offered at the school.

Reporting Requirements

AISJ aims to ensure that all students are given a safe learning environment by maintaining appropriate practices and supervision in the school.

Reporting of suspected child abuse, whether it occurred in or out of school, is the responsibility of any employee who suspects that a student may have been abused. Self-reporting of abuse by students must always be reported to the Superintendent and Counselor. The school will investigate all reports and will take appropriate action to ensure the safety of the student in accordance with Saudi law.

AISJ endorses the Convention on the Rights of the Child* of which Saudi Arabia, is a signatory, and seeks to be a safe haven for students who may be experiencing abuse or neglect in any aspect of their lives. AISJ will distribute this policy annually to all parents and applicants, will communicate this policy annually to students, will provide annual training for all staff, and will make every effort to implement hiring practices to ensure the safety of children. In the case of a staff member reported as an alleged offender, AISJ will conduct a full investigation following the course of due process.

(Sources: Amnesty International Unofficial Summary of the UN Rights of the Child: <http://www.amnestyusa.org/our-work/issues/children-s-rights/convention-on-the-rights-of-the-child>; and Convention on the Rights of the Child: <http://www.crin.org/docs/resources/treaties/uncrc.asp#Nineteen>).

Training

Training on child safeguarding and protection is required annually for all school staff (instructional and support), volunteers, coaches, and anyone else who works with students. A good time for the initial training is the teacher orientation days before school starts. Follow-up trainings may be part of staff meetings or held in other settings throughout the year.

Training topics for all staff must include:

- Definitions of abuse, neglect, and bullying.
- Possible indicators of abuse, neglect, and bullying.
- Statistics of prevalence of abuse and neglect, as closely related to the school's population and location as possible.
- Myths and facts about child abuse and neglect, especially as related to international school communities (see "Myths and Facts about Child Abuse and Neglect" in this handbook).
- Vulnerabilities of international school children (see "Context of the School Community" in this handbook).
- Preventative measures to safeguard children.
- Measures to avoid allegations against school community members.
- Procedures for handling disclosure.
- The roles and responsibilities of the administration, faculty, and staff to report and react to suspected, observed, or disclosed abuse.
- A timeline for response.
- Procedures for investigating the suspected, observed, or disclosed abuse.
- Possible actions that will address confirmed cases of abuse.
- A flow chart for steps to be followed after disclosure.
 - Communication with children, families, staff, authorities and the media regarding child safeguarding and protection and related issues. Generally, this involves complete confidentiality, except in communicating the report to the Superintendent/Administrator/Counselor and, if necessary, involved legal authorities. Only the Superintendent or appointed spokesperson speaks with the community and media.
- Identification and functions of Child Protection Team members.
- Code of Conduct.

Differentiated Training for Different Staff Members

Advisory Board Members:

- School guidelines and procedures.

- Implementation of Child Safeguarding and Protection Plan.
- Content of parent trainings.

Administrators:

- Administrative responsibilities in implementation of guidelines, procedures, and Child Safeguarding and Protection Plan.
- Code of Conduct development.
- Accountability.
- Case management. How to handle:
 - Uncertainty of reporter.
 - Direct disclosure.
 - Working with personnel involved in the case.
 - Any questions the administrators have about issues that may arise.
- Specific reporting of concerns.
- Case studies.
- Due diligence when a teacher is implicated.
- Hiring practices.

Support staff and After-School Activity coaches, volunteers, and helpers:

- Content of staff training.
- Code of Conduct.
- How to avoid allegations of abuse.
- How to access help.

Parent Training

Before beginning any information or training sessions, the school needs to work to promote parent support and buy-in. This can be achieved through several methods:

- Annually distributing a parent-student handbook that highlights child safeguarding and protection plans, and providing this handbook to all new families during the admissions process.
- Meeting with parents and encouraging them to participate in their children's education by reading school newsletters, classroom newsletters, emails, and other forms of written communication from the school. These meetings might take place during:
 - Morning coffees.
 - Formal parent education classes.
 - Evening meetings with parents.
 - All-school events, like assemblies.

- When speaking to parents about the child safeguarding and protection plan, emphasize that it is preventative.

In the fall, after preparing parents to learn more about the plans for child safeguarding and protection, schedule a training session (or multiple training sessions as needed) to reach the most parents possible. Provide translation as needed. The following concepts should be included in the training:

- Understanding of the specific guidelines, protocol, and regulations of the school, including the response of the school in the case of a report of abuse.
- Awareness of:
 - o Signs and symptoms of child abuse.
 - o Statistics of incidence and prevalence.
 - o Awareness of risks to which students are exposed, globally and locally.
 - o Vulnerabilities of international school students in international school communities.
 - o Talking with children; prevention and empowerment strategies.
 - o Handling disclosure and reporting as a parent.
- Community resources available, especially to help with domestic violence and child abuse.
- Pointers for keeping safe and keeping children safe.

Responsibility for Trainings

School Superintendent:

- Ensures trainings take place and adequate resources are available to support them.
- Publicly advocates for the Child Safeguarding and Protection Plan and its implementation, and endorses personnel in their roles.
- Either leads trainings or supports Counselor, Division Principals, or school medical office staff in leading the trainings.
- Provides School Nurse or Doctor with the highest level of training so that person can help with all other trainings, and can be a first responder if an allegation is made.
- Brings in an outside consultant (from ICMEC, for example) to facilitate trainings, if possible.

Avoiding Behaviors that Lead to Allegations

- Avoid situations in which you are alone with a child. This includes not transporting youngsters alone in your car. When it is necessary to speak privately with a child, find a space out of earshot, but within sight of others for your conference.
- The privacy of children in situations such as toileting, showering, and changing clothes should be respected. When it is necessary to supervise children in these situations, at least two adults should be present and intrude only to the extent that the health and safety of the children are required. Adult volunteers should preserve their own privacy in these situations also.
- Avoid touching areas that are normally covered by swimming suits; breasts, buttocks, and groin. When hugging is appropriate, hug from the side over the shoulders, not from the front.
- Sexual jokes, comments of a sexual nature, kissing, sensual massages, or sexual gestures are not appropriate behavior for an adult staff member or volunteer at the school or in the presence of students.
- When volunteering to supervise overnight activities, adults should not share sleeping quarters with children other than their own.
- Revealing personal information about one's sex life by an adult volunteer or staff member is never appropriate.
- Do not use corporal punishment in any form.
- It is the adult's responsibility to set and respect boundaries. When a child attempts to involve an adult in inappropriate behavior, the adult must reject the overture and inform the principal or building administrator of the exchange.

Excursions, School Events, and Student Travel

The school will have guidelines, to be agreed upon by all involved parties, that outline staff and chaperon responsibilities and expected student behavior for excursions, school events, and student travel. In creating such guidelines, they are:

- Aligned with the Code of Conduct.
- Aligned with reporting protocols in this handbook.

Distance Learning Protocols

Attendance Monitoring

Student attendance should be taken, as usual, and logged into attendance database. If students miss more than one online class, the school should contact the parents or caregivers to check on the wellbeing of the child and encourage the child to attend classes.

Reporting a Concern

When school staff members have any concerns about children's safety, whether at home or online, they should continue to follow the reporting process outlined in the school Child Safeguarding and Protection Handbook. Reports should be made by phone or virtual call whenever possible. Staff members should report all concerns immediately.

Recruitment and Training

When recruiting new staff, AISJ will continue to follow safe recruitment practices. Any staff members who join the school while online instruction is in place will read and sign the Code of Conduct and receive training on the Child Safeguarding and Protection Handbook. This includes partner institution representatives.

Online Safety

It is important that all staff who interact with children online continue to look out for signs that a child might be in a harmful or dangerous situation and report any concerns immediately to the Director or child protection team. When appropriate, referrals should still be made to children's social care and the police.

Online teaching should follow the same principles as set out in the Code of Conduct. The school should also ensure that use of online learning tools and systems is in line with privacy and data protection/GDPR requirements.

Below are some things to consider when delivering virtual lessons, especially where webcams are involved:

- All online lessons should be observable and interruptible, just like classroom lessons. Make sure that administration and classroom parents, have a link to all Zoom or other video calls. Administrators and parents should be able to see all online assignments.

- It is the teacher's responsibility to share links, course codes, and other access information for any online platforms they are using with school administrators and parents, in addition to students.
- Whenever possible, use passwords to protect video calls so that only those you invite to the call may participate.
- Administration must observe lessons and video calls. Just like in classrooms, administrators don't need to stay for the whole lesson, but should drop in on calls or lessons frequently to see how things are going.
- One-on-one lessons are discouraged. It is preferable to have two adults present, or more than one student. If a one-on-one lesson is necessary, it must also be observable and interruptible. Make sure your administrators know you are having a one-on-one call and have the link so they can drop in.
- Participate in video calls from an appropriate place in your house—not your bedroom. Encourage students to participate in video calls from a shared space, like the kitchen or living room, or to open their bedroom door if the bedroom is their workspace.
- AISJ discourages video recording online lessons in which students are present. If it is possible to record only the teacher for other students to watch later, that is fine. And of course, instructional videos that involve only teachers are fine. The reasoning for not recording students is:
 - From GDPR and similar data protection standpoints, recording and storing videos of students is largely forbidden.
 - Classrooms on school campuses are regularly observed, but not regularly recorded. We are trying to make students as comfortable online as possible, and respect physical classroom relationships by not enacting measures online that might have a negative effect on those relationships.
- Dress appropriately for video calls.
- Just like in the classroom, report any child protection concerns to the director or your child protection team.

Chapter 4

Disclosure and Follow-Up

Principles and Guidelines for Disclosure, Reporting, and Follow-Up

General Principles

The following principles are considered when implementing procedures for disclosure, reporting, and further action:

- The child's readiness and privacy must be respected. The child will disclose whenever he or she is ready. Therefore, do not push for any information other than that which the child volunteers.
- We operate in a country that may offer limited internal and external support services.
- We should recognize the limitations of expertise in child safeguarding and protection. For example, teachers are not trained investigators or therapists. Therefore, our international school must make use of any local community partnerships, and engage consultants with particular expertise in child safeguarding and protection services, whenever needed.
- We must assess the skills of our staff in an environment that has relatively few professional mental health resources and determine boundaries for which cases the school can handle and which cases can be referred out.
- Laws vary from country to country, and we must act according to local regulations and international conventions to which the host country is a signatory.
- The cases of alleged abuse need to be considered both from the perspective of the alleged victim and the alleged child abuser, establishing the need for due process.
- It is important to minimize the number of times the child engages in disclosing.

What to do if a Child Discloses Abuse

Please note: Teachers and school staff are not investigators. Your role is to listen and respond to disclosures in order to determine the next step for students to get the help they need. When appropriate, a request for an investigation must be completed.

- Do not let a child swear you to secrecy before telling you something. You may need to report, which the child will view as breaking your trust with them.
- Listen without judgment, and without asking leading questions. Do not ask for a great amount of detail.
- Respond calmly and matter-of-factly. Even if the story the child tells is difficult to hear, it is important not to register disgust or alarm. Do not make judgmental or disparaging comments about the abuser; it is often someone whom the child loves or with whom the child has a close relationship.
- Do not confront the abuser.
- Reassure the student that:
 - You believe the student, and the student did the right thing by telling you.
 - You are sorry that someone hurt the student.
 - No one deserves to be abused.
 - It was not the student's fault, no matter what the student did or did not do.
 - You will do everything you can to help to make the abuse stop, which may involve getting the help of someone the student trusts at school.
- Concentrate on the immediate needs of the student; ask what the student needs or wants right now.
- If the child does not want to go home, this should be considered an emergency. Report it and handle it immediately by contacting the school's Child Protection Team. The team should decide on an appropriate plan for the child. DO NOT take the child home with you!
- In other cases, empower the student by asking if he or she feels comfortable reporting the abuse to the Superintendent, Counselor or member of the CPT, and if it would help if you were present.
 - If the student agrees, accompany the student to the appropriate office.
- If the student does not want to report to anyone other than you, inform the student that you must inform the Superintendent or Counselor.
- Be honest with the student, and don't make promises you can't keep.
- Document the disclosure in writing, with date, time, and your signature. There is no specific form for reporting, so disclosure should be a narrative report either typed or handwritten.

- Keep the disclosure confidential, other than reporting to school administration and, if appropriate, to local authorities.
- Work with the school administration and the student to create a safety plan for the student.

Guidelines for Reporting and Action

It is obligatory for faculty, staff, and administrators to report incidents of physical or psychological violence, aggression, harassment, neglect, and physical or sexual abuse to the Superintendent or Counselor immediately. If there is reasonable cause to believe that child abuse occurred (including possible self-harm), the CPT must document all aspects of the investigation and resulting actions. Actions must be considered for appropriateness based on specific details of each situation. After consultation with the legal representation, and according to the “Response to Disclosure or Report Flowchart”, the following actions may be taken:

- First, report the incident to the Child Protection Team (CPT), formulating a plan moving forward.
- Work with the medical team at AISJ to ensure that the child is safe from harm, documenting any needed data.
- Conference with involved students.
- Meet with parents.
- Meet with others pertinent to the case, including alleged perpetrator(s).
- Contact the school nurse.
- Refer the child for a psychological assessment.
- Assign mandatory counseling sessions.
- Report to local authorities, including local child protection services if available.
- Report to an embassy.
- Pursue legal action.

Certain details lead to different actions. For example:

- If a Superintendent is accused of abuse, then the person who received the allegation should report it directly to any member of the Board of Trustees, who are obliged to investigate. A current list of board members may be found on the school’s website.
- If the child is in preschool or the 5-year-old-class, then identify someone who is familiar with child development and can interact appropriately with the child, and include that person in conversations with the child.
- If the child has difficulty communicating in a language that is not understood by trained staff members, then identify a translator who is not involved in the situation and include that person in conversations with the child.

- If the child has other challenges that make communication difficult, then identify a person who is not involved in the situation and who can help the child to tell his/her story in a way that is understood (e.g. someone with a special education background), and include that person in conversations with the child.
- If family members from any embassy are accused of abuse, or a child from an embassy family is a victim of abuse, then the Superintendent must inform the embassy Regional Security Officer (RSO) as soon as possible and work with them to plan the next steps.
- If the child is an expatriate, then in addition to following local guidelines that apply, the school must consult with legal representation and work with the appropriate embassy Regional Security Officer (RSO). If one or both parents are accused of abuse, then in addition to contacting the embassy RSO, the school must contact the parents' employers.

Actions in the Case that the Suspected Offender is a School Employee

When a child, parent, staff member, or other community member reports inappropriate behavior by a member of the school staff or someone who works with students, the school must respond immediately. The emotional and physical safety of children is dependent upon a safe school environment; therefore, any disclosure of teacher, staff, or volunteer offenses must be taken seriously and dealt with swiftly. The integrity of a school and a school system is not dependent on whether an offender exists; instead, the integrity of the school or system depends on how the school responds when an alleged offender within the school is reported.

In the case that the reported offense is sexual in nature, appropriate embassies, child protection agencies, and law enforcement must be contacted, and the alleged perpetrator must be prohibited from further contact with any children at the school while an investigation is conducted. In cases of sexual offenses against children, offenders are likely to have multiple victims in the same location.

Immediate responses include:

- Informing and involving the child(ren)'s parent(s).
- Informing the person under investigation of the allegations.
- Depending on the severity of the allegation, placing the accused on forced leave while an investigation is conducted.
- Depending on the severity of the allegation and the laws of the country, determining who will conduct the investigation (Child Protection Team, law enforcement, embassies, etc.).

Response to Disclosure or Report Flowchart

Guidelines for Disclosure or Report Follow-Up

Determine risk for re-offense:

- What happened? Might it happen again?
- Who was involved? Are they still present?
- When did the offense occur?
- Where did the offense occur?

If the offense is ongoing and the child lives with the offender:

- Will you make a report to the authorities?
- Whom will you bring in to protect the child, such as a non-offending parent?
- What immediate actions can the child take, or might be taken on the part of the child, apart from reporting?

When interacting with the child:

- Listen to the child without pushing for details. Allow the child to tell you as much as he or she wants to share. Give alternatives for continuing conversations, like involving a counselor or others in the child's support network.
- Explore feelings and concerns the child has about the experience, such as guilt, fear, shame, and anger.
- Affirm that the experience was an assault, and the child is never to blame for someone else's actions.
- Affirm each feeling the child shares, while also determining if those feelings are overwhelming to the child. Work to help the child put a healthy limit on the feelings.
- Explore the child's support system to give the child options for others whom they can ask for help, including parents, adult relatives, friends, and other trusted adults.
- Explore the play that the child enjoys and help the child to make plans to do what he or she likes to do, like going to a movie or going to a safe friend's house.
- End the session by making sure the child knows what to do if assault happens again or is attempted again:
 - o Say NO!
 - o Identify a safe place to which the child can run.
 - o Specify people to whom the child can run or call for help.

Documentation of Disclosed or Reported Cases of Abuse

AISJ procedures regarding confidentiality and management of school records applies to all aspects of the documentation of incidents of abuse. The school will be guided by local law, international norms, the advice of the experts and school legal team, and local or embassy child protection personnel.

The Child Protection Team has guidelines that address:

- Confidentiality agreement for all members of the Child Protection Team.
- Minutes of Child Protection Team meetings, including decisions or recommended actions.
- Where records of reports of abuse or bullying are kept.
- Creation of a child protection reporting form (see example in the final chapter of this handbook) that includes:
 - Reporter's relationship to the child/victim.
 - Child's name, gender, age, address.
 - Parents'/Guardians' contact information and other relevant information.
 - Family information, including siblings, nationality, embassy relationships, etc.
 - Name, contact information, relationship to child, and other helpful information about alleged perpetrator.
 - Information about reporter and school.
 - Nature and extent of injuries/mistreatment.
 - Evidence of prior abuse.
 - How reporter was alerted to the abuse/bullying.
 - Description of action taken, or recommended action.
 - Other helpful information.
- Reporting to local authorities and documentation of such a report.

Confidentiality in Communication in Case of Abuse or Emergency

In the case that an allegation of abuse is made, everyone involved with the school will have questions, and the media may approach the school for a statement. When communicating with the community, or if contacted by the media, the integrity of the victim is paramount. It is also critical to maintain the confidentiality of the victim's family, the alleged perpetrator and his/her family, and the reputation of the school. Therefore, the following must be considered when sharing any information with the community or media:

- Designate a spokesperson who will communicate with the school community and the media. In most cases, this should be the Superintendent. Make sure that all staff and others affiliated with the school know that they should not answer questions or share information; they should refer all questions to the spokesperson.

- If local authorities are investigating, then no statements should be made as they might compromise the investigation. If asked about the situation, the only response by the school's spokesperson should be, "There is an ongoing investigation so we are not at liberty to share any details regarding the alleged incident at this time."
- Less is more. It is not the job of the school to share detailed information of the allegations, to confirm or deny specific allegations, or to share publicly the results of any internal or external investigations. Rather, when there are allegations of abuse/neglect in the school (not within a school family) and the allegations have become public knowledge, a letter should go out to school families that does not share any specific information about the allegation, but includes:
 - Acknowledgment that an incident of alleged misconduct has been brought to the administration's attention.
 - Reassurance that the school is cooperating with the appropriate officials.
 - An explanation of the need for confidentiality, both to protect the child and to avoid compromising the investigation.
 - Reassurance that the highest priority of the school is to provide a quality education that includes a safe environment, and a brief statement of ways the school works to ensure a safe environment.
 - A list of the resources that are available for students and families (e.g. school counselors or outside resources).
 - Contact information for the designated spokesperson for questions and concerns.
- If you suspect that an alleged incident of misconduct may hit the media, the Child Protection Team should gather to create a media strategy.
 - It is critical that the school identifies one spokesperson who will represent the school in all communication with the media, and that no other staff members speak to the media. Information that is shared must be tightly controlled.
 - Do not allow the media to speak with students on campus.
 - Always maintain confidentiality of the victim, perpetrator, allegations, and investigation outcomes. Do not confirm or deny any information about which the media asks for comments.
 - Prepare a statement before speaking with the media, and if possible run this statement by the school's legal team.
 - If possible, ask a reporter for a list of questions ahead of an interview. Prepare written responses to the questions.

- o If multiple media outlets are contacting the school, schedule a press conference, prepare talking points, and limit questions at the end.
- o Consistency of information shared is key, and should include the same information that is shared above in the letter to school families.
- o There is no obligation of the school to talk to the media, but the media is looking for a sensational story and they will share any information they have. Therefore, it helps the school to provide an official statement if the story is publicly escalating.

Chapter 5

School-Specific Documents

AISJ Safeguarding and Child Protection Statement

Safeguarding and Child Protection is a priority for every adult, parent, and student within the AISJ community.

- AISJ will educate and inform all stakeholders in their right to be safe and in how they might foster that respect within the community.
- AISJ will utilize safe and compliant recruitment and hiring methods consistent with child protection policies.
- AISJ will audit, train, review, and maintain safe practices in regard to personal responsibility and reporting structure with all employees on a regular basis.
- AISJ will uphold investigative and reporting practices when issues of child protection are raised.

Local Laws Related to Child Safeguarding and Protection

KSA has established both laws and a functional social protection department to protect against violence and abuse. According to their website, the department seeks to provide:

- 1- Provision of social protection for women of any age and children under the age of eighteen, and some vulnerable groups from abuse and domestic violence in their various forms.
- 2- Formation of social protection committees in regions and provinces, these committees work with the authorities that are in direct connection with cases subjected to violence to achieve their social security and take into account their interests.
- 3- Open social protection units in regions and provinces and contract with a number of charitable associations to open departments for social protection.

- 4- Contribute and prepare various scientific studies on the problem of domestic violence, and develop curative and preventive ways in cooperation with the relevant authorities.
- 5- Raise awareness among community members about the need to protect family members from abuse and violence.
- 6- Rapid response in cases of abuse, and immediate coordination with the relevant authorities (governmental and civil) to serve victims of domestic violence in Saudi society.
- 7- Develop a comprehensive national strategy to reduce the problem of domestic violence at all levels in cooperation with the relevant authorities.

Local Authorities and Services Working on Child Safeguarding and Protection

According to the local social services website, the following steps may be taken to report instances of child or female abuse:

How to report cases of domestic violence

- Call from fixed-line or mobile on the toll-free number (1919).
- Contact any of the social protection committees in the different regions of the Kingdom.

Who will receive communications

- Receiving communications center on the toll-free number (1919) of the general directorate of social protection.
- Committees of social protection in different regions.
- Regions' Imarahs.
- National family safety program.
- Governmental and civil hospitals.
- Police stations.
- Educational institutions.
- Charitable associations.
- Human rights commission.
- National society for human rights.

Strategy of dealing with protection cases

- Reform: Focus is on solving the problem amicably between the parties.
- The social and psychological rehabilitation: Through individual and group sessions.
- Temporary shelter: When it is difficult to address the problem or when cases are in risk.

Procedure for Investigation into Child Abuse or Neglect, including Self-Harm, at the American International School of Jeddah:

Initiation of Investigation:

- a. Upon receiving a report or becoming aware of possible child abuse, neglect, or self-harm, the designated Child Protection Officer (CPO) at the American International School of Jeddah will initiate an internal investigation.
- b. The CPO will appoint a qualified and trained investigator or team of investigators to handle the case. The investigator(s) should have expertise in child protection and knowledge of relevant laws and protocols.

Gathering of Information and Evidence:

- a. The investigator(s) will conduct interviews with the individuals involved, including the child, alleged perpetrator, witnesses, and any other relevant parties. Interviews should be conducted in a safe, supportive, and age-appropriate manner.
- b. Any physical evidence, documents, or digital evidence related to the alleged incident should be collected, secured, and documented appropriately. This may include photographs, medical records, electronic communications, or any other relevant material.

Collaboration with Authorities:

- a. If the alleged incident involves criminal activity or serious harm, the investigator(s) should report the matter to the appropriate local authorities, such as the Saudi child protection agencies, following all local laws and regulations.
- b. The school will cooperate fully with any external investigations conducted by the authorities, providing them with all relevant information and assistance as required.

Assessment and Decision-Making:

- a. Based on the gathered information and evidence, the investigator(s) will assess the credibility and veracity of the allegations.

AMERICAN
INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL OF JEDDAH

b. A thorough analysis will be conducted to determine if there is sufficient evidence to substantiate the claims of child abuse, neglect, or self-harm. The investigation will be impartial and fair, taking into consideration the rights and well-being of all individuals involved.

Procedure for Handling Child Restraint at the American International School of Jeddah

Policy and Guidelines:

- a. This policy aligns with local laws, regulations, and best practices for ensuring the safety and well-being of the child, as well as the staff involved.
- b. The policy outlines the circumstances in which physical restraint may be used, the specific techniques allowed, and the importance of using restraint as a last resort when there is an immediate risk of harm to the child or others.

Staff Training and Education:

- a. All staff members who may be involved in physically restraining a child will receive specialized training on the appropriate and safe techniques for physical restraint.
- b. The training will emphasize de-escalation strategies, non-physical interventions, and alternative methods of behavior management before resorting to physical restraint.
- c. Staff members will be trained on recognizing signs of distress, monitoring the well-being of the child during restraint, and responding to any potential injuries or emotional distress that may arise.

Documentation and Reporting:

- a. Whenever physical restraint is employed, it will be documented thoroughly, including the reasons for its use, the individuals involved, the duration of the restraint, and any relevant details.
- b. Staff members will report the incident to their immediate supervisor or designated authority promptly, providing a factual and detailed account of the situation.
- c. Once it is safe to do so, parents will be notified.

Monitoring and Review:

- a. The use of physical restraint will be closely monitored by the school administration and reviewed periodically to ensure compliance with the policy and adherence to best practices.
- b. The effectiveness and necessity of physical restraint will be evaluated, with a focus on identifying opportunities for alternative strategies, preventive measures, and additional staff training.

Parental Communication and Involvement:

- a. Parents or guardians of the child involved in a physical restraint incident will be informed as soon as possible, following established communication protocols. The school will provide a detailed account of the incident, including the reasons for restraint and any related concerns.
- b. Open communication channels will be maintained with parents or guardians to address any questions, provide support, and collaborate on strategies to prevent future incidents.

Continuous Improvement:

- a. AISJ will continuously review and update its policy on physical restraint based on emerging research, local regulations, and best practices in the field of child safety and behavior management.
- b. Feedback from staff, parents, and students will be actively sought and considered to enhance the policy, training, and overall approach to maintaining a safe and positive environment for all students.

Chapter 6

Documents and Templates

Code of Conduct

This Code of Conduct must be read and signed by all employees of the school, parents, and anyone who will have contact with students as part of a school program, activity, field trip, or other event. The person's signature indicates understanding and agreement to the Code of Conduct.

AISJ Code of Conduct

AISJ is committed to the safety and protection of children. This Code of Conduct applies to all faculty, staff, employees, and volunteers. The public and private conduct of faculty, staff, employees, students, and volunteers acting on behalf of the school can inspire and motivate those with whom they interact, or can cause great harm if inappropriate. We must, at all times, be aware of the responsibilities that accompany our work. Additionally, members of the school community, including parents, must be aware of the parameters of the Code of Conduct and the expectation of adult behavior toward children within the school community.

- We should be aware of our own and other persons' vulnerability, especially when working alone with children and youth, and be particularly aware that we are responsible for maintaining physical, emotional, and sexual boundaries in such interactions. We must not engage in any covert sexual behaviors with those for whom we have responsibility. This includes seductive speech or gestures as well as physical contact that exploits, abuses, or harasses. We are to provide safe environments for children and youth at all school activities, both on and off campus. We ask families to provide safe environments for children at private events as well.
- We must show prudent discretion before touching another person, especially children and youth, and be aware of how physical touch will be perceived or received, and whether it would be an appropriate expression of greeting, care, concern, or celebration. School personnel and volunteers are prohibited from physical discipline of a child.
- Physical contact with children can be misconstrued both by the recipient and by those who observe it, and should occur only when completely nonsexual and otherwise appropriate, and never in private. One-on-one meetings with a child or young person are best held in public area; in a room where the interaction can be (or is being) observed; or in a room with the door left open, and another staff member or supervisor is notified about the meeting.

- We must intervene when there is evidence of, or there is reasonable cause to suspect, that children are being abused in any way. Suspected abuse or neglect must be reported to the appropriate school and local authorities.
- Faculty, staff, employees, and volunteers should refrain from the illegal possession and/or illegal use of drugs and/or alcohol, and from the use of tobacco products, alcohol and/or drugs when working with children. Adults should never buy alcohol, drugs, cigarettes, videos, or reading material that is inappropriate and give it to young people. Staff members and volunteers should not accept gifts from, or give gifts to, children without the knowledge of their parents or guardians.
- Communication with children is governed by the key safety concept of transparency. The following steps will reduce the risk of private or otherwise inappropriate communication between parents, administration, teachers, personnel, volunteers, and minors:
 - Any dual relationships with students (close family friendships with parents of students, volunteer positions outside of school that involve students, etc.) are governed by the professional expectations of behavior and adhere to all other points in this Code of Conduct.
 - Any one-on-one encounters with minors must be observable and interruptible.
 - Where possible, email exchanges between a minor and a person acting on behalf of the school are to be made using a school email address.
 - Faculty, staff, and volunteers who use any form of online communications including social media (Facebook, Twitter, etc.) and text messaging to communicate with minors may only do so for activities involving school business.

Statement of Acknowledgement of Code of Conduct for Signature

I promise to follow the rules and guidelines in this Code of Conduct as a condition of my providing services to the children and youth participating in AISJ programs.

I will:

- Treat everyone with respect, patience, integrity, courtesy, dignity, and consideration.
- Never be alone with children and/or youth at school activities without another adult being notified or in a place that is observable and interruptible by others (e.g. an open classroom door or open meeting area). Teachers that are tutoring students in their residence will ensure that another adult is present at all times. No tutoring will be done in a private area such as a bedroom. Locations must be common and interruptible by adults. For specific guidelines on tutoring see this document.

- Use positive reinforcement rather than criticism, competition, or comparison when working with children and/or youth.
- Maintain appropriate physical boundaries at all times and touch children only in ways that are appropriate, public, and non-sexual.
- Comply with the mandatory reporting regulations of the school by reporting any suspected child abuse or neglect to the Superintendent or Counselor.
- Cooperate fully in any investigation of abuse or neglect of children and/or youth.
- Protect the child and the child's family by maintaining confidentiality in the case of a report of misconduct, and refusing to share any details about the report with anyone outside of the school's Child Protection Team and relevant authorities.

I will not:

- Touch or speak to a child and/or youth in a sexual or other inappropriate manner.
- Inflict any physical or emotional abuse such as striking, spanking, shaking, slapping, humiliating, ridiculing, threatening, or degrading children and/or youth.
- Be under the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs at any time while working with children and/or youth.
- Give a child who is not my own a ride alone in a car without permission from the child's parent/guardian, unless the child's well-being is in danger. In the case of transporting the child in an emergency situation, I will always make a written report of the circumstances and actions taken as soon as possible to submit to the superintendent.
- Accept gifts from or give gifts to children or youth without the knowledge of their parents or guardians.
- Engage in private communications with children via text messaging, email, Facebook, Twitter or similar forms of electronic or social media except for activities strictly involving school business.
- Discuss the details of any allegations with anyone outside of the Child Protection Team.

Staff, volunteers, and others who work with students:

I understand that as a person working with and/or providing services to children and youth under the auspices of AISJ. I am subject to a criminal record background check. My signature confirms that I have read this Code of Conduct and that as a person working with children and youth, I agree to follow these standards. I understand that any action inconsistent with this Code of Conduct or failure to take action mandated by this Code of Conduct may result in disciplinary action up to and including removal from the school. If a report is made against me, and the allegations are confirmed, the school is bound to share the findings with anyone who inquires for a reference about me.

It is impossible to predict every situation that may arise. In all cases, the staff member is expected to exercise sound judgment to protect the safety and well-being of the child.

Parents:

I understand the rules regarding mandatory reporting that are in place at the school. I agree to maintain an environment in my home and at private events that is free from abuse and neglect, for my own children and any other children with whom I may interact.

Introductory Letter to School Community

Dear Parents,

AISJ strives to provide your children with positive educational experiences that are characterized by caring, supportive relationships and free from neglect or abuse of any kind. We are committed to working with you to ensure that the school maintains this type of environment.

AISJ has developed a Child Safeguarding and Protection Handbook, which has been adapted to and adopted by this school. By enrolling your child(ren) at AISJ, you agree to work in partnership with the school and you understand and agree to the child protection Code of Conduct. Protocols outlined in the handbook are aligned with the policies, mission, and procedures of AISJ:

SAMPLES

To help our students to learn and grow in a safe environment, the following educational components are included in the school's Child Safeguarding and Protection plan:

- Age-appropriate lesson plans to foster understanding personal safety, needs, and rights in each classroom.
- Parent information sessions and resources regarding the school's Child Safeguarding and Protection programs and policies.
- Faculty and staff professional development workshops on recognizing and reporting child abuse and neglect.

Thank you for your support in maintaining a school and community in which students, staff, and parents feel safe and happy. If you have any questions about the Child Safeguarding and Protection plan or any other school policies, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Robert S. Jackson
AISJ Superintendent

Guidelines for Excursions, School Events, and Student Travel

It is important for the success, child safeguarding and protection, and risk management plan of all events that staff, parents, volunteers, and host families be consistent regarding the rules for student participation. Host schools should assure that host families understand their role and what is expected of them and the visiting students, especially concerning curfews and a controlled environment. The following will apply to all school-sponsored events:

- The student participant curfew is 22:00 for all nights of school-sponsored events.
- Students in the 13-year-old class and below are not allowed to be unsupervised. They should be under the direct supervision of their respective coaches, chaperons, or host parents throughout the trip.
- Secondary students may visit host cities but should always be with a student or adult from the host school, or a chaperon from their own school. Students (visiting and host family) must always inform the chaperon or host family parents of their intentions and location when leaving the hotel or host family home.
- The school requires that the chaperone do a room check at curfew time on each night of an event and speak with the parents and students.
- Students are prohibited from using tobacco products, alcohol, or drugs at any school-sponsored event. Students will abide by the policies of both their home and host schools.
- The following items are not rules but best practices that can aid in the protection of our students participating in events:
 - Students should be seated in groups when traveling by train, bus or plane.
 - Students should be supervised on transportation (buses, mini vans, taxis, etc.) while visiting a host city.
 - When host schools receive dietary/medical information from visiting schools they should involve their nurse with any noted students.
 - A preseason coaches' meeting should be scheduled as it is an important way to share information and guidelines.
 - A pre-travel parent and student meeting should be scheduled as it is a good way to share the guidelines and collect travel documents.
 - Chaperons, coaches, and host school contacts should have each other's phone numbers programmed in their phones in case of emergency.
 - Upon arrival at a school, chaperons should be shown the school's emergency protocols.

Regulations for Students

These regulations shall be followed by students participating in all events (whether athletic, academic, cultural, etc.) organized and sponsored by the school. Any student who participates in a school event agrees, by signing below, to obey all regulations.

- Students shall obey all instructions given them by their chaperons, coaches, or host school representative. This applies to all activities, irrespective of location, undertaken during the period of the school-sponsored event.
- Any use of tobacco, alcohol, or drugs is not permitted. Students involved with school activities may not go to bars or nightclubs.
- Room arrangements made by the chaperons or responsible official of the home or host school may not be changed. If a student feels unsafe with their room assignment, this should be voiced to AISJ coaches.
- Student curfew for all school-sponsored events is 22:00. Students must be in their rooms by this time. Students in 13-year-old class and below are not allowed out of the chaperon's supervision unless chaperoned by a host parent and/or an event sponsor. Schools and families may set earlier curfew times.
- Secondary students may go out independently, with permission from chaperons, but should always be with a chaperon, student, or adult from the host school.
- Students must always inform the chaperon of their intentions and location when leaving the hotel.
- These regulations apply to all students-- those from the host school and those visiting-- throughout the event's duration and, for visiting students, apply also during the journey to and from the site of the event.
- Students must display appropriate respectful behavior at all times to: their peers, event officials, event sponsors, chaperons, coaches, and all members of the school and host community.

Violation of these regulations will be reported to the responsible school official and to the student's chaperone or coach.
