

You can't break me
by Skipperdoodle Productions

You can't break me,
Though you want to very badly.
Why? Because you hate me.
Why? Because I am different from you.
Because you fear me, my joy.
But regardless of what you do, you will never break me.
Even all your marshaled hate cannot stop me from loving you.
Why? Because we are from the same family.
Despite all your great plans, even your great power,
The most you can do is temporarily vex me, temporarily concern me, make me dislike you.
The shield of God protects me.
God's sword will strike you down.
Jesus died for me. Heaven is mine.
The only way for you to not lose is to join me in the fight against the hell of hate, fear, and fascism in which you dwell, are doomed to die.
