“What’s wrong with you?” asked the yellow frog.

“I’m very thirsty! I didn’t drink for two days,” the snake said sadly.

“ Oh, poor you. We can’t live without water!” shouted the orange frog.

“Yes, that’s true, but in this region there is very little water. Look! The flower is dying. Animals have nothing to drink,” said the snake.

“We need to find water! We will help you! Come with us!” the green frog added.

All animals, butterflies and hummingbirds, went together.

The animals continued on their way in the forest, they saw fantastic mountains and valleys, the colors were next to magical and it felt like they got to experience something they had only experienced in their imagination.

The animals came to a waterfall with a small lake below a nice mountain. All around it was completely green.

"We jump in" said the penguin who loved to swim and swim.

The frog was also quick to jump in and made a nice jump!

The snake hesitated but eventually jumped in, they all bathed and drank water. Everyone was so happy to have found water that they could cool off.

The animals give thanks and ask the wise fox: "Please, fox, help us to make nature return the way it was before".

The fox helps them, but he needs Pikachu, the only one who can talk to humans and convince them to respect the nature.
