Subject	Captivating people with your website

Hello James,

It's inspiring that you dedicate time from your busy schedule to volunteering at hospice organizations. It shows that you are a man who has his values in order.

Every person visiting a website needs to feel this kind of way towards the business. It builds trust and makes the business relatable to the visitor.

You will find benefits in structuring your website in a way that will intrigue the reader and make him trust your services.

Your business will have a fresher and cleaner look too!

The most successful businesses, like Marisa Peers, have structured their website in an inspiring way that has helped them convert 1000s of visitors into clients.

Here's a very simple example of what a website like this could look like.
