

Identity Flag Artist Statement

By: Cody

In World Studies we had to create a flag representing our identity. We did this assignment to help express ourselves. We each created a flag that represents our identity and the stories we have to tell. Flags represent someone or something and they bring together communities, or tear them apart depending on what they stand for.

For my design I thought about my identity and what my family is like and I added those into my flag. The purple outline is because I like photography and this reminds me of the outline on a polaroid photo. The red line is to represent a story... In Sandpoint Idaho there is a big red chair. My family cabin is in Sandpoint and I have hundreds of photos of me sitting in that big red chair. The red represents that chair, my cabin, and time with my family spent in Sandpoint Idaho. The purple curved lines are to represent my childhood. When I was a young child my family had a huge garden that was full of onions. When I was really small I would go out to the garden and eat the raw onions like candy. For some reason they were so delicious to me. The brown squiggly dot is representing me and my friend's favorite animal which is a grizzly bear. The yellow tree is meant to represent my love of nature and all things outdoors. This flag represents me and my personality.
