

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE CONTACT: Matt Frank mfrank@steegethompson.com
215-939-5420

PHILANTHROPY NETWORK GREATER PHILADELPHIA WELCOMES KIMBERLY KIRN AS EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

PHILADELPHIA, P.A., March 25, 2026 -- Philanthropy Network Greater Philadelphia is pleased to announce the appointment of Kimberly Kirn as its new Executive Director. Kirn will lead the Network in its mission of advancing philanthropy to drive meaningful change across the region.

Kirn brings more than two decades of experience working across Greater Philadelphia's nonprofit and philanthropic sectors, including previous roles as a strategic consultant with the Center for High Impact Philanthropy and the Free Library of Philadelphia. Most recently, she was the inaugural Executive Director of Impact100 Philadelphia, where she led a community of women philanthropists to advance high-impact, collective grantmaking.

Kirn steps into the role at a pivotal time as the Network focuses on strengthening partnerships, deepening member engagement, and amplifying its impact.

"We are thrilled to welcome Kim as new Executive Director," said Philanthropy Network Board Chair Rashanda Perryman. "Her deep experience as a leader and her commitment to fostering collaboration across our region's philanthropic sector made her the clear choice. We are forever grateful to Interim Director Tynetta Brown for her leadership in keeping our operations strong over the past six months. With Kirn's appointment, Philanthropy Network Greater Philadelphia enters a new chapter, as it continues to evolve and respond to the changing needs of the community."

Having engaged with the Network throughout her career, Kirn brings a deep appreciation for its programs and role as a connector and convener. As Executive Director, she will focus on reinforcing the Network's core strengths: fostering connection, advancing shared learning, and supporting effective philanthropy to spark solutions that improve communities.

"Collaboration and partnership are essential to meeting this moment," said Kirn. "The most meaningful progress happens when nonprofits, funders, and leaders across sectors come together to solve challenges in their communities. I'm honored to lead an organization that can facilitate those conversations and collective actions in our region."

Kirn holds a master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania's Annenberg School for Communication and a bachelor's degree from the University of Delaware. She is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College's Nonprofit Executive Leadership Institute and a 2010 Leadership Philadelphia Fellow. She resides in Center City with her husband and two teenage sons.

About Philanthropy Network Greater Philadelphia

For more than 30 years, Philanthropy Network Greater Philadelphia has convened funders from around the region to exchange ideas, inspire new thinking, and align resources.

As the only membership organization for philanthropy in Greater Philadelphia, it focuses on increasing the impact and effectiveness of regional giving and acts as a hub for local learning

###

