The saga continues, and the next generation of heroes needs to power up with a training arc! It is time for them to team up with the old masters in order to learn their special moves. This means each team will consist of a learning player and an experienced player!

- BO3 matches
- Loser's bracket
- Teams must consist of a learning player and an experienced player
- Experienced players will have their decks chosen for them

Players will sign up with their teammate by contacting a tournament organizer on the discord server.

Tournament organizers will determine if a player is considered an apprentice or a master.

When a team is approved by the tournament organizers, the team will then sign up on challenge using a link provided by a tournament organizer.

Master players will need to rely on instructing their apprentice teammate in order to win.

Every round, the masters will be assigned a secret bad deck that they will have to use during that round.

The community and competitors can provide suggestions for these bad decks.

Apprentice players may choose their decks as normal.
