

Things to say to kids who need to believe in themselves...

You are an amazing kid, and I can't wait till the whole world knows it!

Maybe everyone doesn't know how great you are yet, but they will. I want you to know that I knew it today!!

Every amazing scientist, inventor, or talented person who has changed the world was once very different from the people around them.

Every day, I feel happy when you walk in the door. Thanks for making this school a brighter place!

Will you still talk to me when you're famous?

This world is a better place with you in it! I know that in my heart...

There's just something special about you, it's like I'm meeting someone very important before everyone else knows it!

Kids like you, lead us to more interesting places!

When we get your voice onto a page or into a video or somewhere where people can really hear you, they will be as amazed as I am.

Things to say to kids who need to believe in themselves...

Are you an expert, dressed up like a kid, trying to fool me!?

I've been teaching for a while and I've never met a more extraordinary kid.

I can already see what you will be and it's amazing.

The only one who can stop you is you. I think it's time to start working on your dreams.

Every day, I get happy when you walk in the door. Thanks for making this room a brighter place!

I am so grateful to have the opportunity to be a part of the story of the beginning of what you are becoming!

You are the kind of kid I became a teacher to work with.

The world is a lot brighter because of you!

How can I help you be amazing today?

I have bad days. Do you? Let's try again and we can make today great!

Things to say to kids who need to believe in themselves...

I know that you have amazing things inside, and I know when we figure out how to let 'em out the world is going to discover how great you really are.

Every day is a clean slate and a new chance to be amazing. I think your day might be today!

I'm so glad you're here today!!

You make people smile!

I was having a tough day but then you walked in and bam...things are looking up!

Hey! You're here and now we can begin! It just isn't a great day unless you're here!

Your good effort is much more powerful than any other attribute.

This world is a better place with you in it! I know that in my heart...

The world is going to be so surprised when you become what you were meant to become!

When I first met you I thought you were an ordinary kid, but now I see that I was way off. You are an amazing kid.

Things to say to kids who need to believe in themselves...

Let the world know how exceptional you really are!

Your biggest weakness is your biggest strength waiting to be told well.

On the day you decide to really launch, you will leave scorch marks on the tile!

Every day, I am amazed by how hard you try.

If the only student I had was you, I would still want to come to work every day.

I'm not sure if you believe in you, but I believe in you enough for both of us.

You have an amazing mind, and every day me and the rest of the world get closer to seeing it more clearly.

When you choose to share your story, I will stand in line to read it.

I want things to go your way today!

I am so proud of you for everything you are.

Things to say to kids who need to believe in themselves...

If they ever make a movie about my life, would you mind playing the role of my favorite student?

You and coffee are the best things about my day.

I can already see what you're going to be, and it's amazing.

I know that at present I may appear smarter than you but soon you will be much smarter than me.

I see what you do when kids are unkind and it inspires me. You might be the coolest kid I ever met.

Thanks for being you. Knowing that I have a special kid in my class makes me get to work on time every day!

Sometimes I brag to the other teachers that I have you in my class.

Your writing, drawing, talking, and sharing just makes my brain happy.

You're the biggest reason I came to school today!

When I see you struggle and keep going, it reminds me I can do the same.

Things to say to kids who need to believe in themselves...

There's just something special about you, it's like I'm meeting someone very important before everyone else knows it!

You are especially smart! I'm so proud of you I have goosebumps!

Thank you for making my day.

I miss you and your classmates over the weekend.

You're a great problem solver, and that will take you far in life!

I love watching you play / listening to you read / talking to you about what you learned.

I'm so glad you're here! I needed something to make this day better.

When you graduate, will you come back and visit sometimes? I hate to think of this school without you.

In the last 3 months, you have more than transformed. I knew you had potential day one, but this is amazing.

You are a natural leader.

I'm proud to have you in my class.

Things to say to kids who need to believe in themselves...

You are so helpful to your classmates. Thank you.

Growing is hard work.

You will change the world. It's up to you if it's a good or bad change.

Learn all you can, all your life long; Education can never be taken away from you!!!

I am so glad that you are here.

You are so smart. Promise me you will use your powers for good and not evil.

I can't wait to see you graduate!

Will you be proud or regretful when you look back on your school career?

Your behavior means more to me than your grades.

I know you have "greatness" in your future!!

Things to say to kids who need to believe in themselves...

I saw you helping that student in the hall when everyone else walked past. I got to see one of your best traits, and it makes me so very happy!!

You have the type of energy around you that people want to follow. I know you will always strive to be the positive leader I am sure you were meant to be!

Thank you for telling me what's going on at home. I am sorry that happened and you do not deserve to have that happen to you. Let's go get help to fix this together.

Super duper, little pooper scooper!

You make me a better teacher.

Have faith in yourself. You have got this!!

Everyone is unique. Who told you you were normal?

Being around greatness is inspiring.

Thanks for your positive attitude! Your smile is contagious!

I can see that you are a leader. When you work hard, others follow your example too.

Things to say to kids who need to believe in themselves...

Kiss your brain! You are so smart!

The best revenge you can get on any one who is mean to you is to never quit, never let anyone define your future!

You are brilliant. You are beautiful. You matter!

When I think about being here at the beginning of the story of what you will become I get excited.

You're one of the coolest kids I ever met.

If I could 3-D print more kids like you I would!

I am glad people like you will be in charge of my future!

If I had 10 thumbs, I'd put 'em all up for you.

You are your parent's masterpiece, a true work of art!

You are a true example of what it means to be there for others.

You make my job worth it!

Things to say to kids who need to believe in themselves...

If I had to pay airfare for your work, it would be a first-class ticket!

Enjoy all your small achievements as one day they will make you great.

Just keep on going and you'll make it.

I believe in you.

When your brother was in my class, he worked the same as you. (in a positive way!)

I'll always remember you forever.

If you believe you'll succeed.

You can do it, I believe in you.

You are a great student.

You've always made my day.

How did you know that I needed to see you today?

You, sir, are my favorite.

Things to say to kids who need to believe in themselves...

YES! I get another "insert last name" kid! I love this family!!

You always take good care of me. I like that about you.

You are smart. You are kind. You are important. -The Help

Kiss your heart- kindness. Kiss your brain- right way of thinking

I am so lucky to know you. You bring joy to my life.
